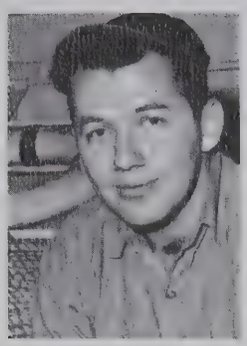
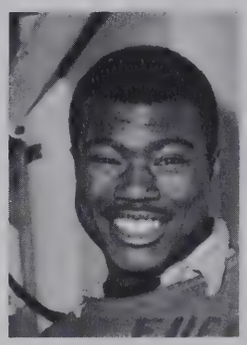
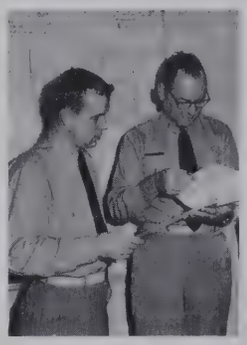
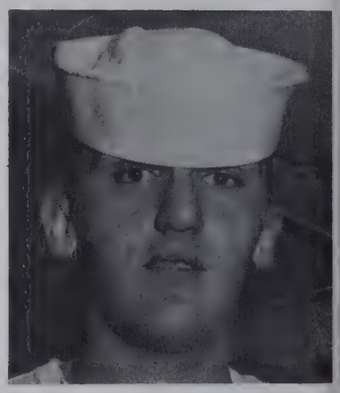
The Men of SARATOGA . . .

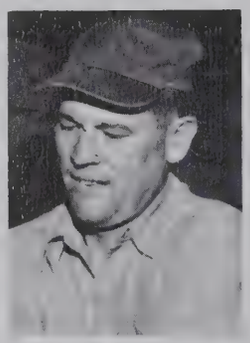
The hands by which all this becomes a reality, marvelously trained and dedicated . . .



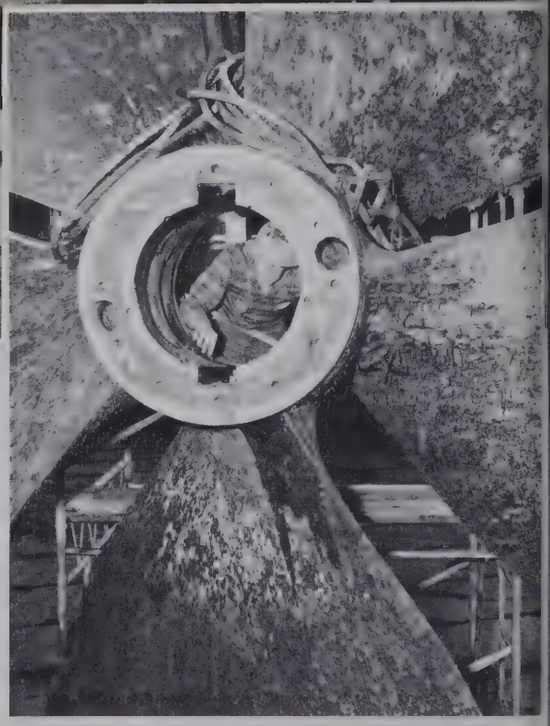








The midnight oil . . .



The hub of activity . . .

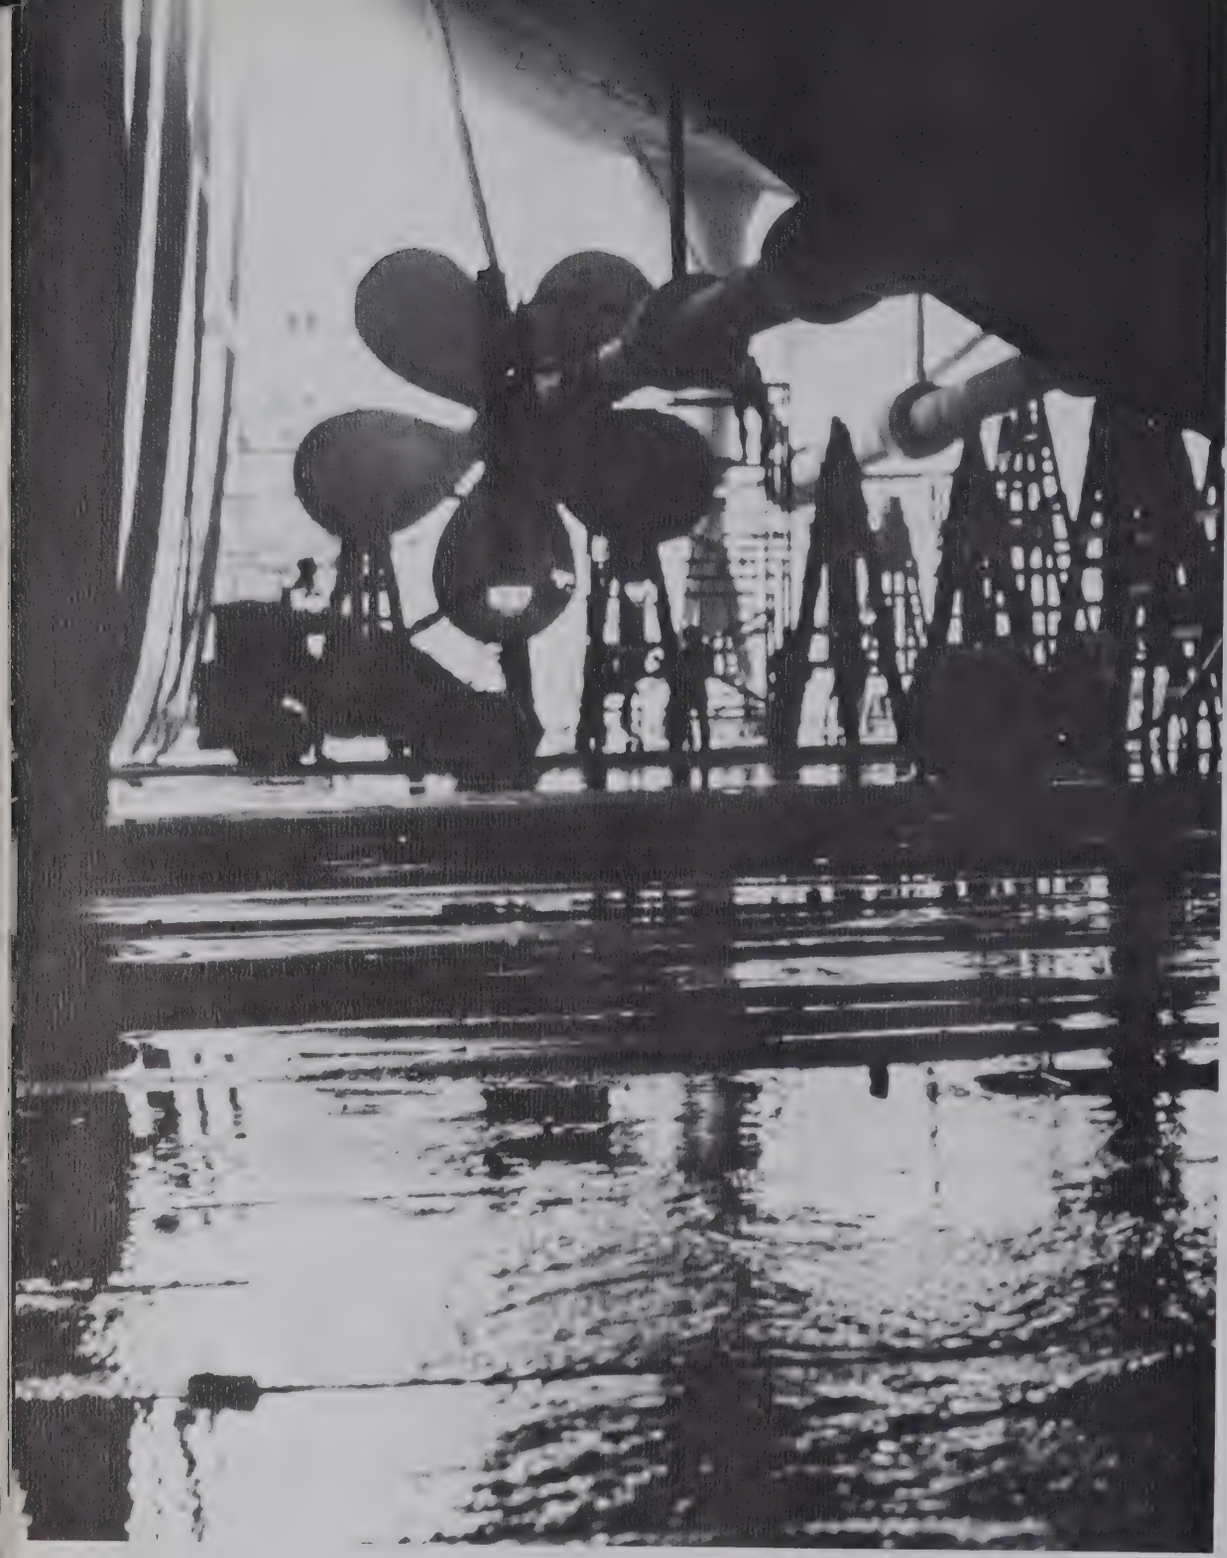
Preparation

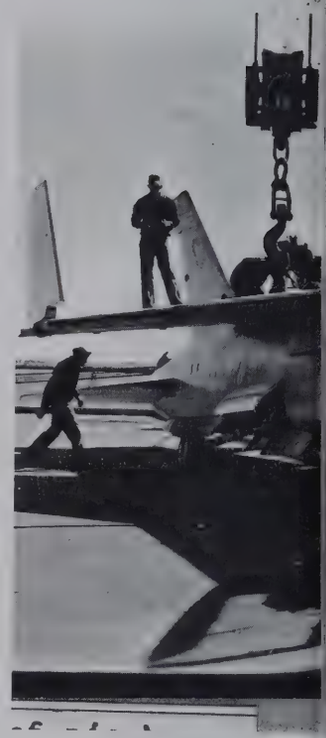
Day and night the yardworkers toil in preparing SARATOGA . . . from her propellers to the mast, she is renewed and readied for her voyage . . .

A study in dynamics . . .

. . . and soon the '63 model . . .

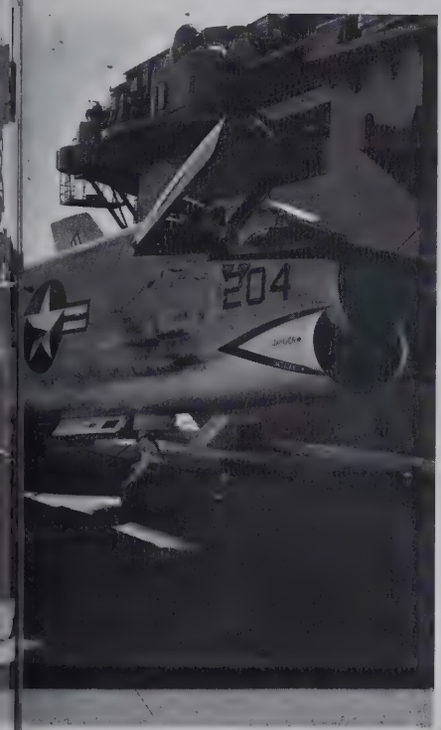
Shackled shackle situation . . .





Picking a five-leaf clover . . .

As the yardwork nears the end, preparations are made for our upcoming deployment . . . equipment once again comes aboard, an anxious tugboat huddles under our bow, awaiting . . .



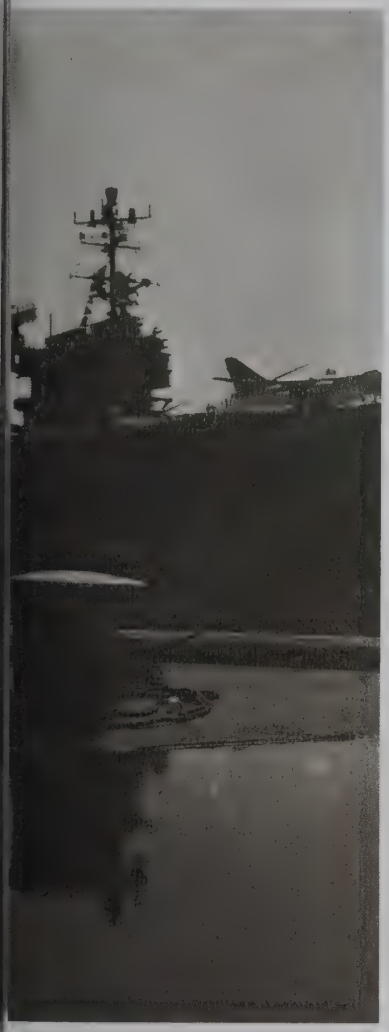
Hey, Charley, lookit what I caught!

Gee, wonder why I gotta paint this, nobody'll ever see it.

All Aboard . . .

Lil' Toot and his mother . . .

Departure . . .



A last kiss of loved ones,
the mad scurry as the gangway is lifted,
SARATOGA is gently nudged into the stream,
while families await the last wave . . . goodby . . .

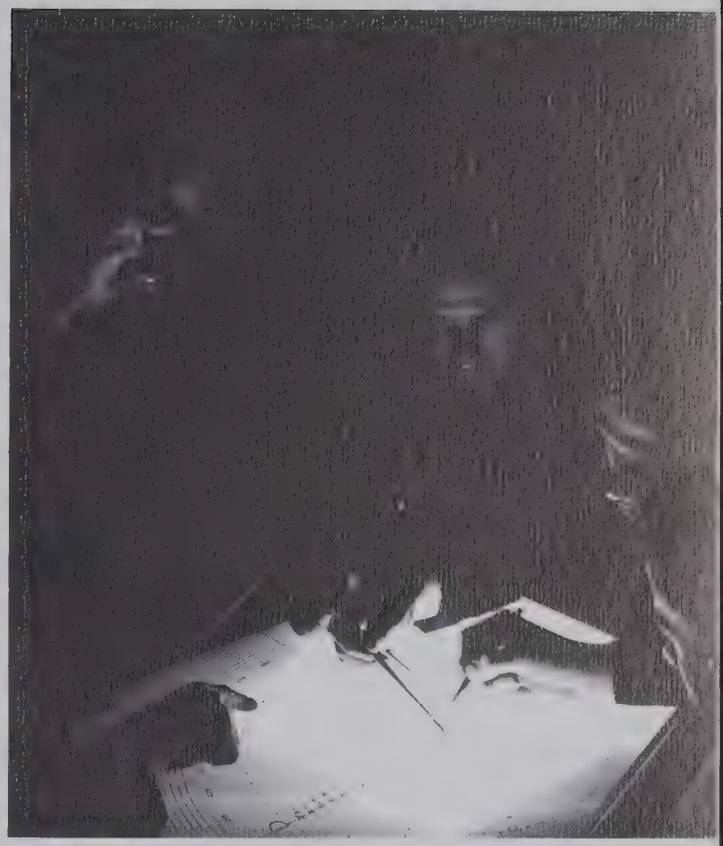
THE MED AHEAD . . .

Once again SARATOGA leaves her land, to roam the high seas, extending the mighty arm of the U.S. NAVY . . . always ready to strike the foes of democracy a crushing blow. . .

Under the wise, firm hand of Capt. Moore, SARATOGA steers an easterly course over the meanest ocean in the world . . . Captain's Plot determines our safe course through shipping lanes . . . the Helm indicates course and speed changes to our engineers below, which are quickly turned into motion . . .

Where's my relief? Larry Kuyon, Jerry Inks, Herb Knowles

Why . . . why its a windshield wiper! Capt. Moore



The maneuvering bored . . .
Chuck Bliss, Lt. Clark
Clem Clowers,
Jim Checkett

0 to 30 knots in a half an hour, wow! Ron Hamel, Fred Smitherman, Art Sweeney

Sir, I keep getting Jack Paar!
Fred Antill

Lesee, black and white flashing light . . . its a mail buoy! Mike Konik

(" . . . gotta get out . . .")
Dick Fontano

The only time a sailor isn't hungry . . .
Jim Hognacki

A man sits transfixed by the sweeping radar scope, a lookout slowly scans the horizon, while above decks and below SARATOGA rests while she can, awaiting her day's adventure to begin.

*#%bosun!.John Kelly

0600

"Revielle, revielle! All hands heave out and trice up! The smoking lamp is lit in all berthing spaces . . ." SARATOGA awakes, and begins the day . . .

You'd think I'd have a black beard.
John Kelly

Lesee, now. I think I'll wear a chambray shirt and these blue pants. Nice combination!

Phew!

Watch me get this guy's hand!
George Gilbert, Ray Chatelain

Chomp, girgle, splash . . .

Under the glow of the morning sun, Sarasailors tackle their work, while a calm sea rushes y our flanks . . .

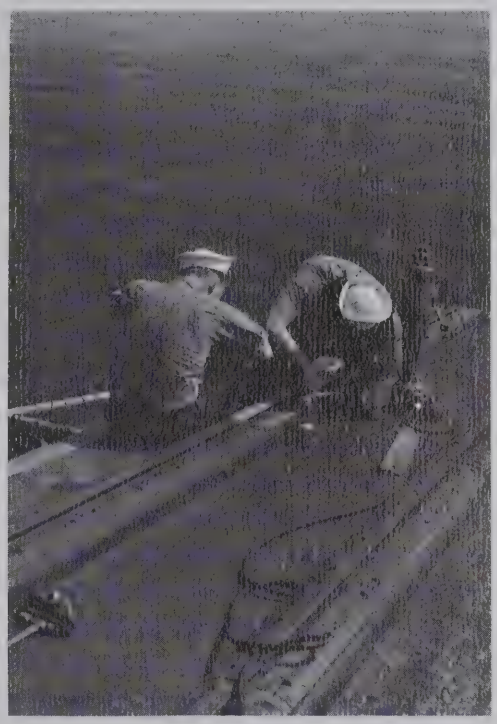
The morning after . . .

Commence Ship's Work . . .



Gee, Fred, I wish you'd let me do that. Bill Brockett, Fred Needs

Here's the trouble, a finger is stuck in there. Ray Brown, Frank Crawford, Bill Canfield.

Aw, c'mon Charley! I'll let you wipe, too.

And that John, is how you make a tape-recorder from an APX-6! John Eden, Jim Kirkpatrick.

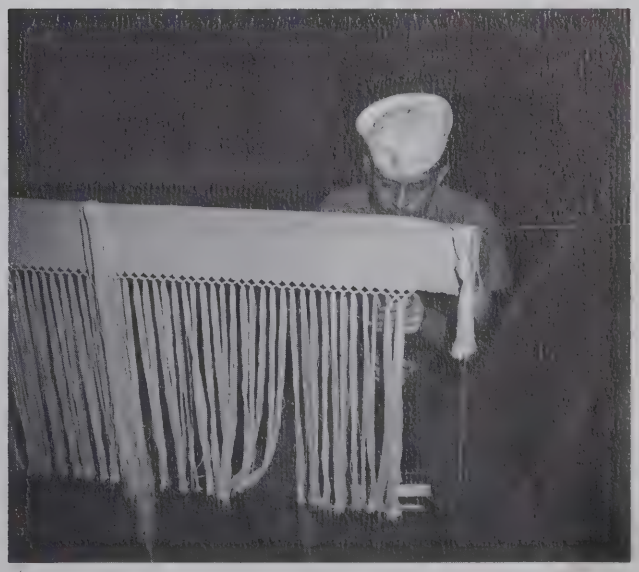
Hey! You painted my hand!

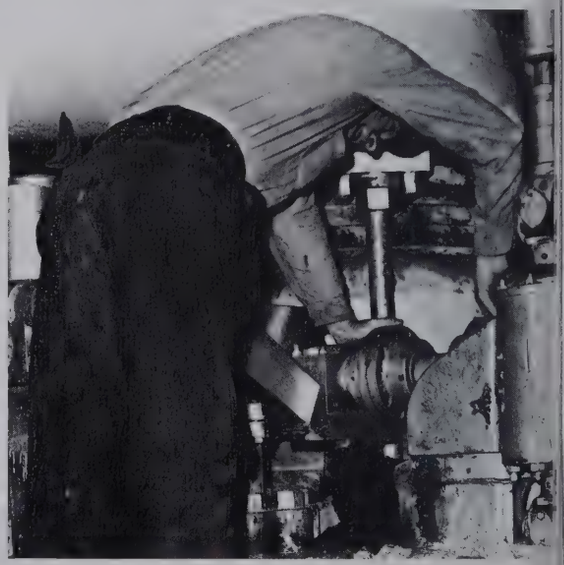
The melding of age-old mariner's skills and tomorrow's world of electronics is taken for granted . . .

I hope they like purple. Paul Stacho

I'll be darned! It's a Wurlitzer. Don Gamer, Jim Taylor

Knit one, pearl two . . . Ernest Howard





Oh, oh, something's burning? Herb Kliem, Ray Scheuffle

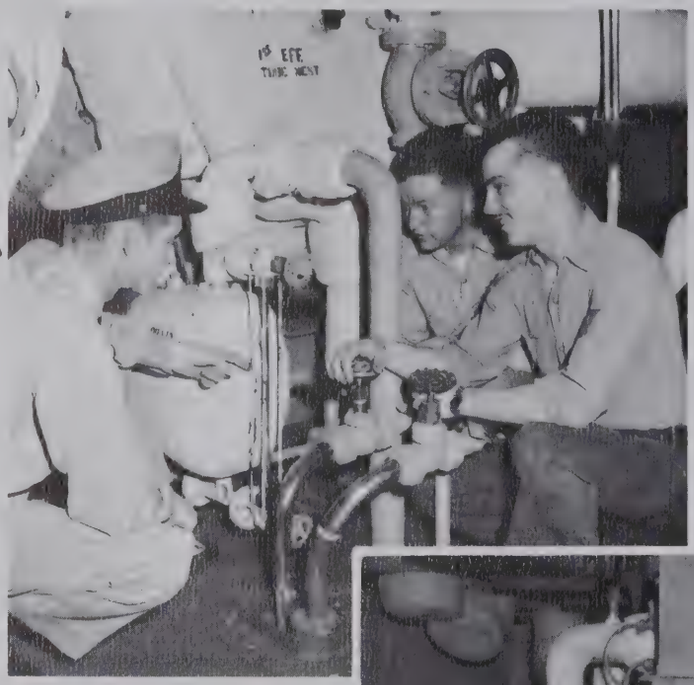
Now just what are you doing in there? Jack Williamson, Paul Sowa

Dexterous fingers and strong backs, frail in the shadow of the machines they command, keep the innards of SARATOGA functioning at her best . . .

My sparkler is brighter than yours!

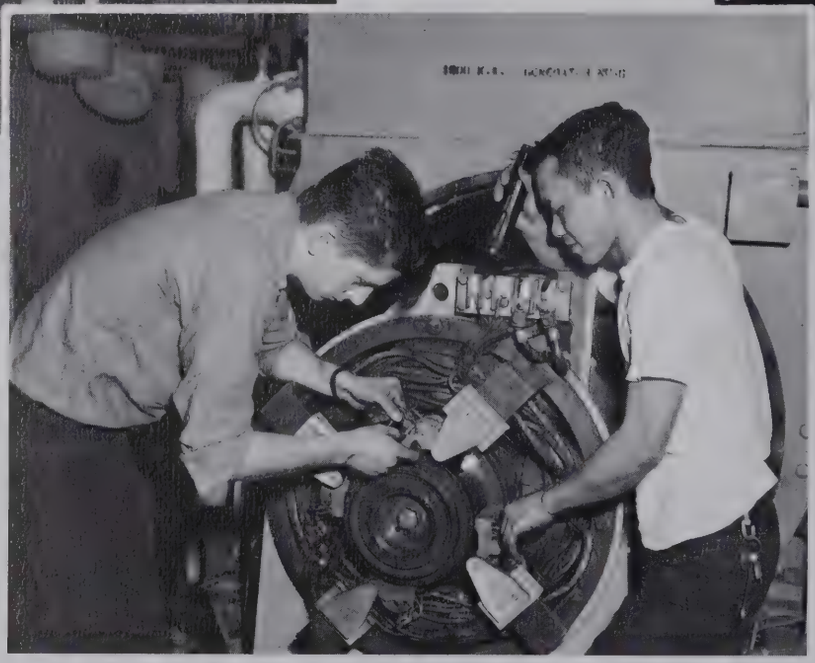
Fixing the ice cream machine . . . Berry Bishop, U. T. Fitzgerald, Tom Havens, Bill Tagitheisen

Now that's a pretty silly way of doing it! Chief Halaska, Blaine Nuckolls



This one's beer? Herb Kleim, Chief Rose, Billy Webb

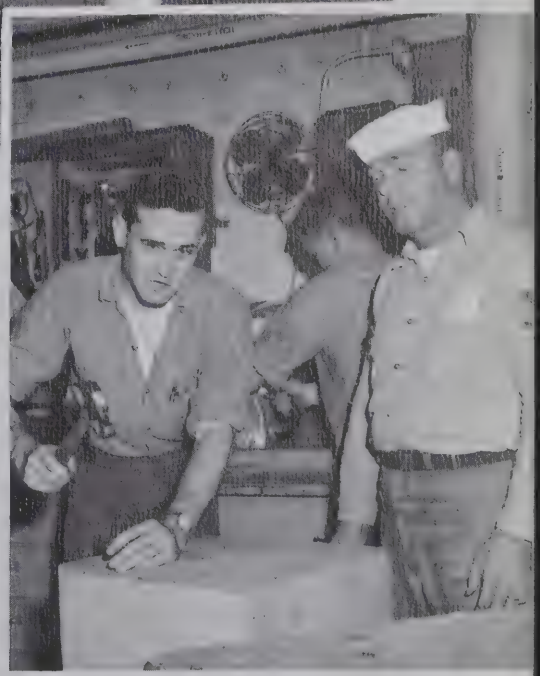
Aviation mechanic mechanicing . . . Dennis Danahy



Gee, you're smart! J. Spencer, N. Bacali

The hub cap shop . . . Bob Putnam

Eager young hands, anxious to learn their job, listen and practice the advice of their seniors, assuring our Navy of continued excellence . . .

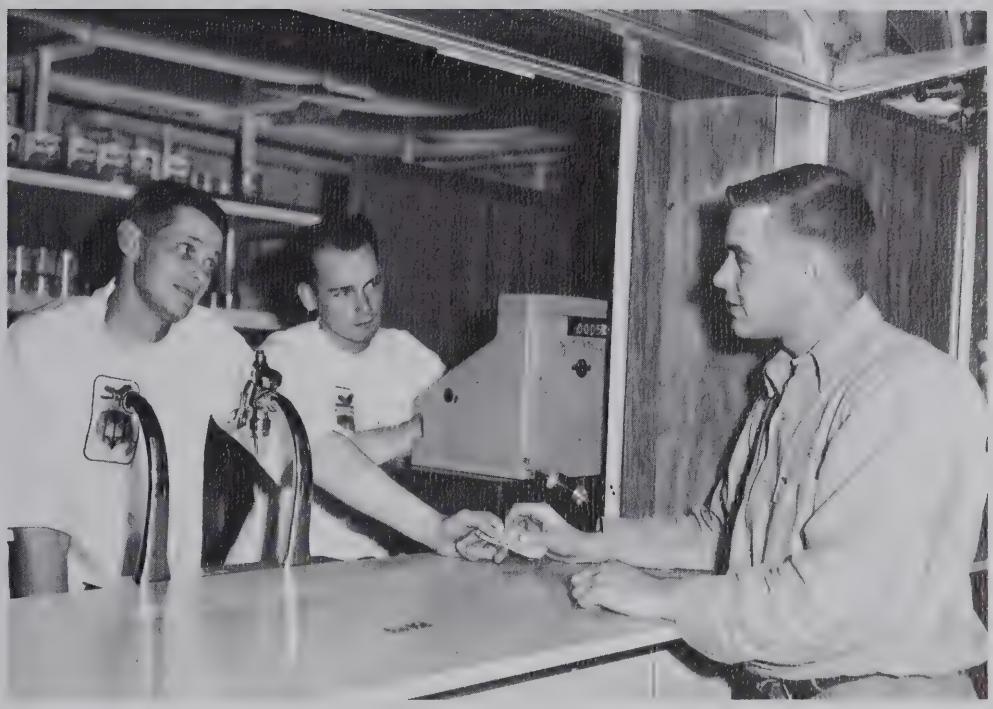


If I ever see another cruisebox, I'll simply scream! Bob Montgomery, Bill Jenkins

Hmmm . . . hasn't moved for a while . . . better paint it. Earl Blair

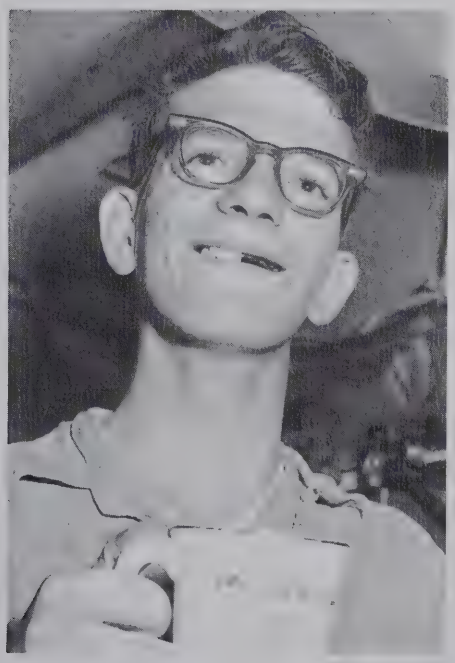
Two blockheads building bulkheads.

Two men work amidst the metallic cacaphony of the metal shop, while in the fo'c'stle a man paints our anchor chain, accompanied by the hushing sea . . .

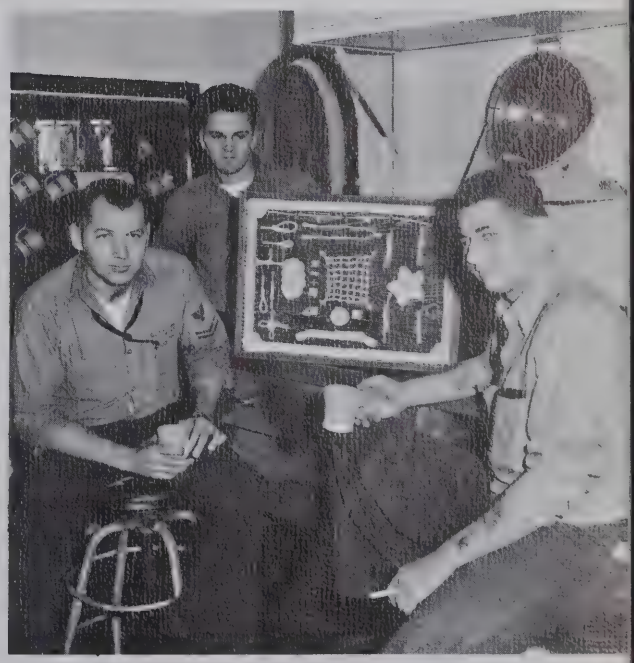


How many times I gotta tell ya, no beer! Kelly, Olson, Murdock

A slice of America, in the middle of the Atlantic! The morning coffee break is a chance to pause, and catch one's breath, and a cigarette . . .



Hee! Glenn Miller



Hey, these guys don't like my tattoos! Sammy Davis, Oink Burch, Rats Areundo

Refuel . . .

Man all refueling stations!
Two ships meet, signals exchanged,
they come abreast . . .
Hoses link the liviathans,
men scurry about, they shout to one another
over the grind of machinery and roar of the sea . . .
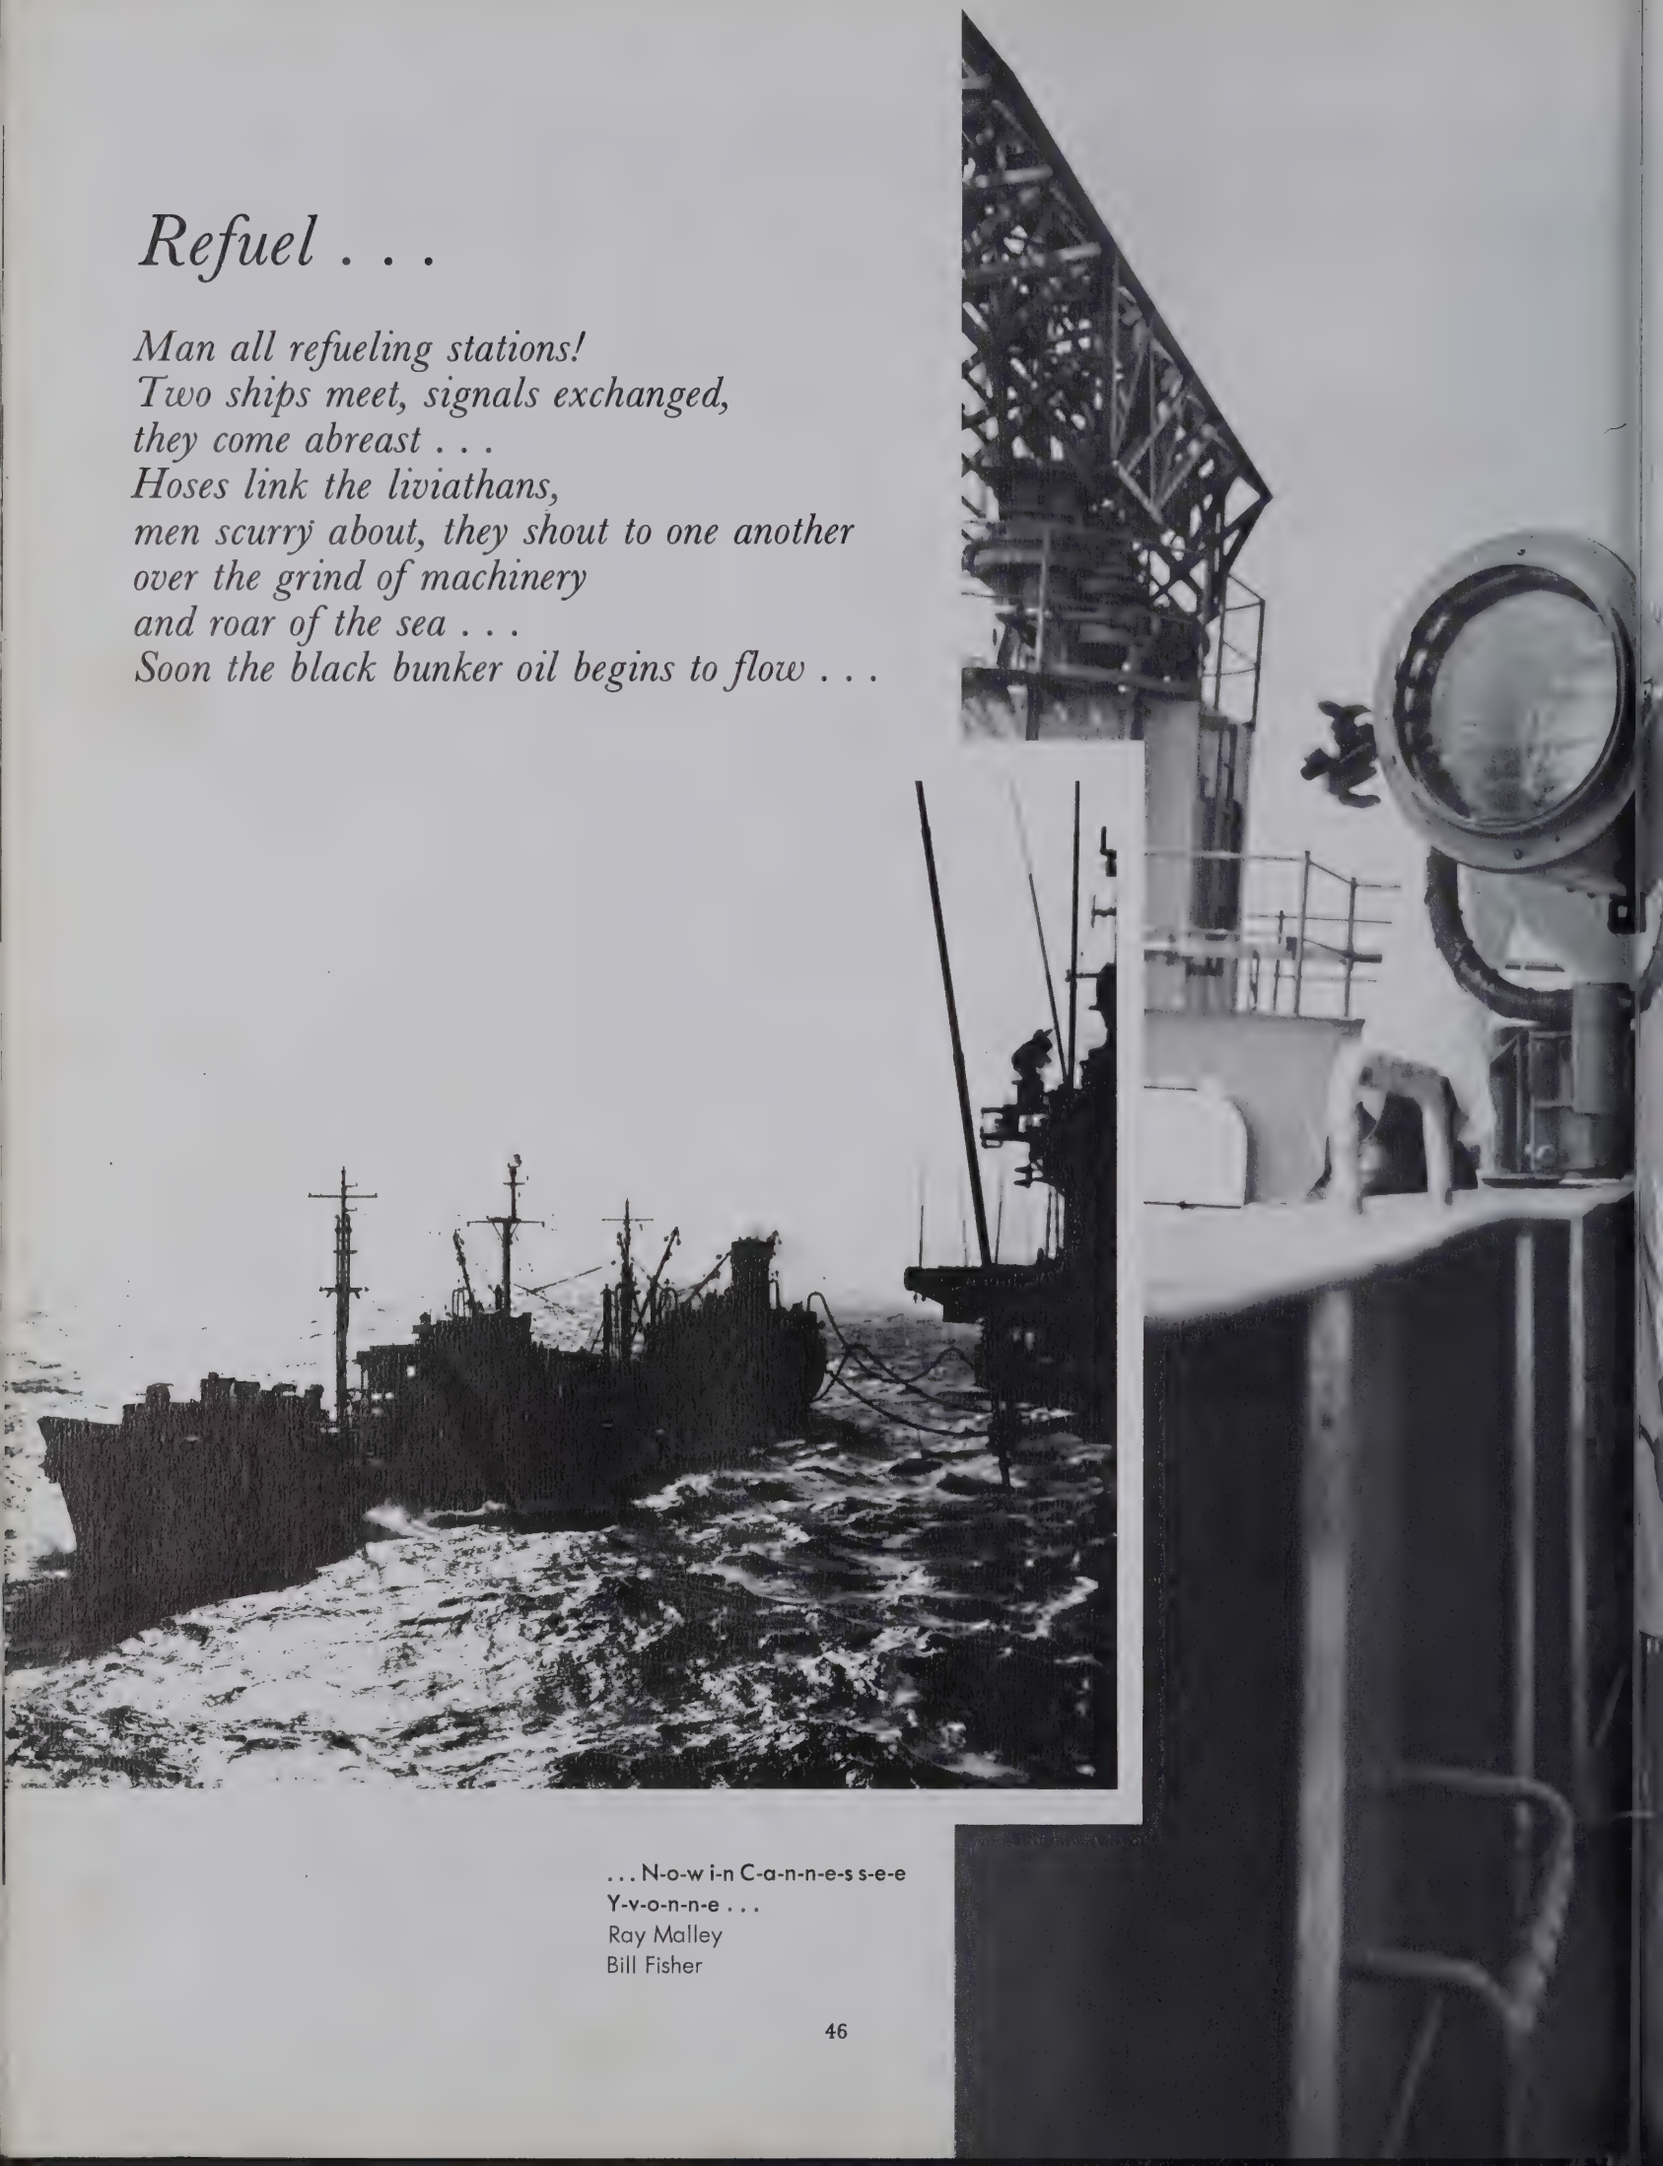
Soon the black bunker oil begins to flow . . .

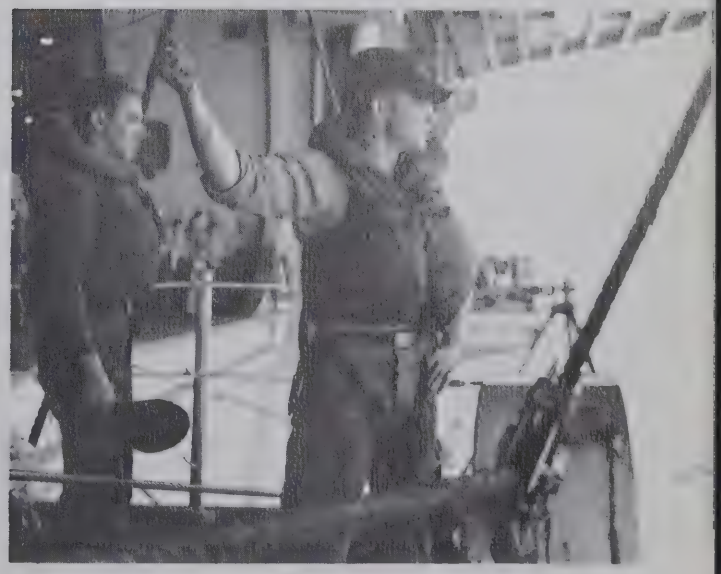


. . . N-o-w i-n C-a-n-n-e-s s-e-e
Y-v-o-n-n-e . . .
Ray Malley
Bill Fisher

Hey, this is fun!

2,657, 2,656, 2,655, 2,654 . . . Bosun Foster

You goin' back to CONUS? Anderson

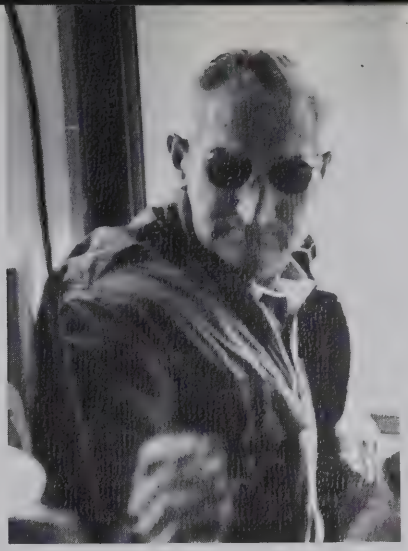


What a complicated pair of sunglasses!
John Yovanovitch

Eager to please new ears, the band plays to our friends across the way, giving a carnival-like air to the proceedings . . .

Toot, toot, and like that . . .
Alvaro Gonzales, Monte Leach,
Paul Geitzenauer, Frank Pepe

With SARA'S belly full, we in turn assume the role of gas station, feeding our hungry greyhounds . . .



No, I said, "TWO hotdogs and ONE coke!" Capt. Moore

The cement mixer . . . Leroy Heinz

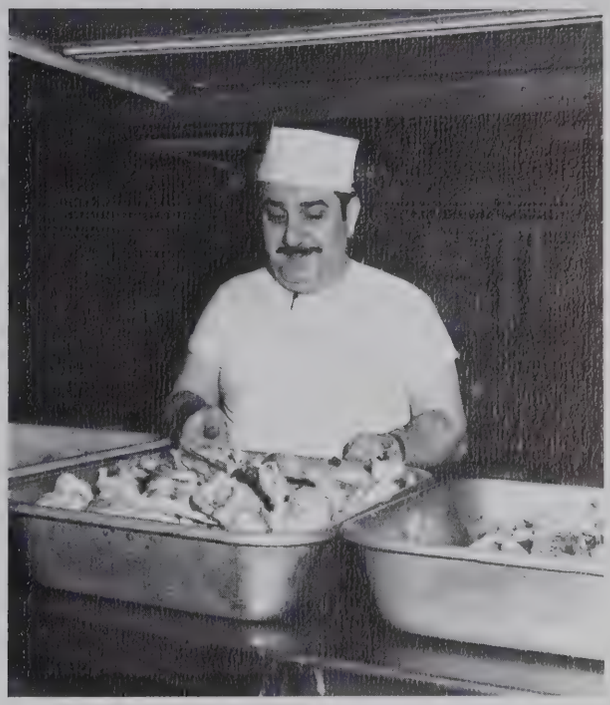
Doughboys at flank speed . . . Stan Griffin, Roy Heinz, Hank Samsel, Chuck Henson

14,000 Meals

Hey, this is hot! Roy Heinz

See, we can do it, too! Stan Griffin

Shorty, you been eatin' from my pot? George Beller, Lucius White, Gerald Cardone



Hoboy, all for me! Gerald Cardone

A Day . . .

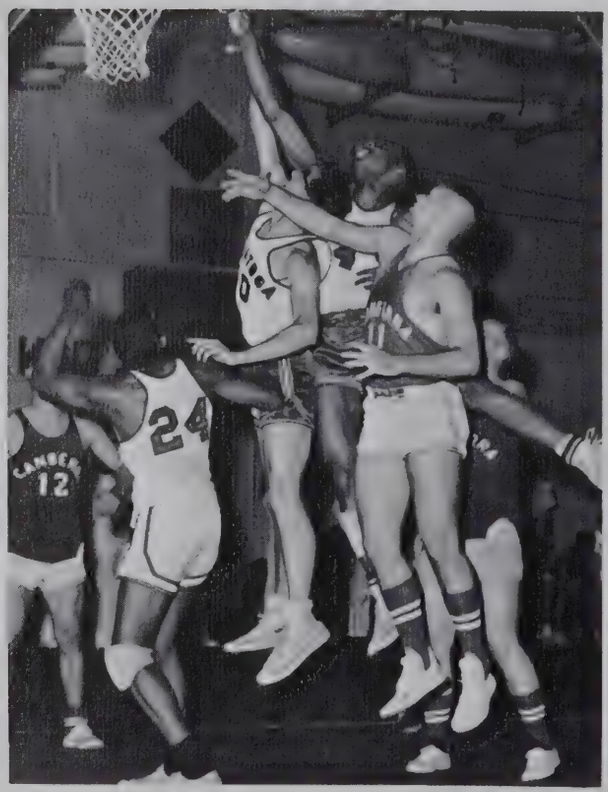
SARA's kitchen boils around the clock, feeding her hungry men an average of 4500 calories a day, to all comers . . .

Gobble, slurp, splash, again

A stack of used sailors . . .
(Names withheld upon request)

After the noon meal, comes a stolen nap, a chance to play basketball or read a book, mail a letter or buy some soap, a present . . .

Swan Lake . . .



Yah, don't kid me, man!

. . . between Monday and Saturday . . . Chaplain Stevenson

. . . And if you put your hand in here again, I'll stamp it twice! Ron Rhodes

Come on, quit fumblin'! Don Moore, George Maddox

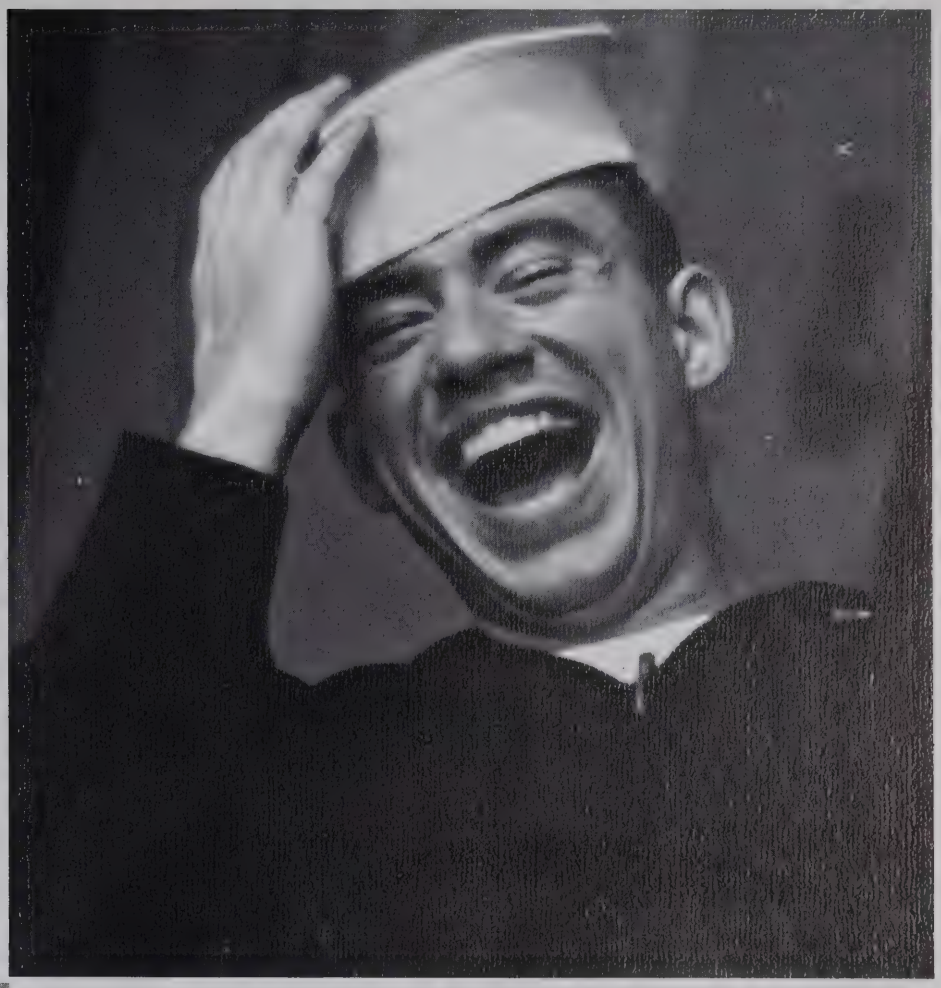
I'm sorry sir, but you'll have to buy those in a drug store . . . Fate Clark, Mr. Shiller

Dr. Glass holds field day . . .

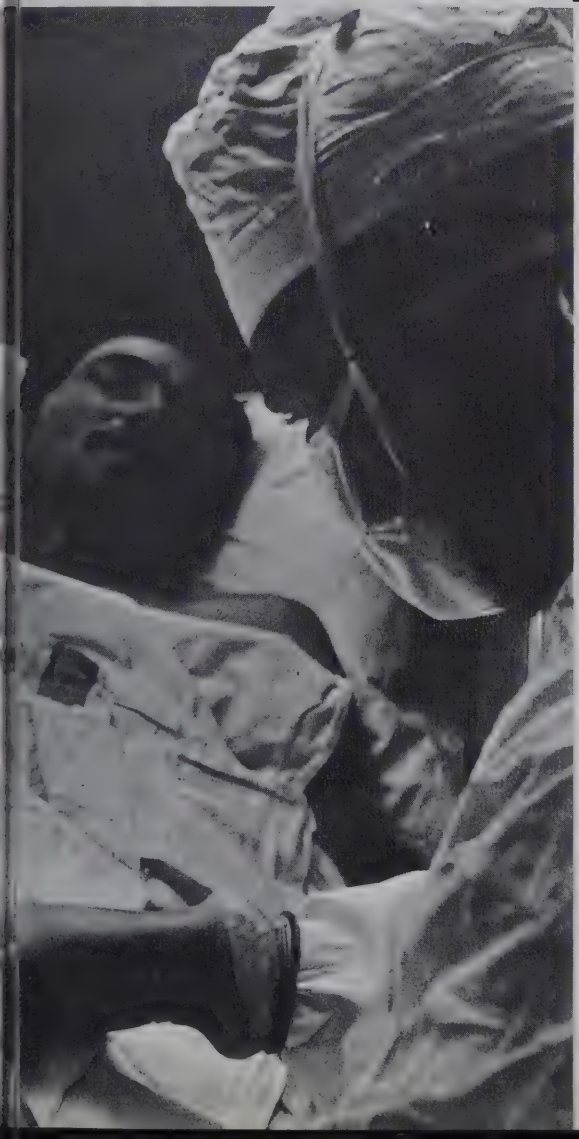
A staff of five doctors and three dentists assures the health of SARATOGA . . . Anything from a polio shot to major surgery, from a filling to false teeth . . .

Watch it buddy, you're gonna get punched out! Don Rhamy, Issac Boyd

More "free benefits" Ed Murray, Bob Northington, Jim Hines

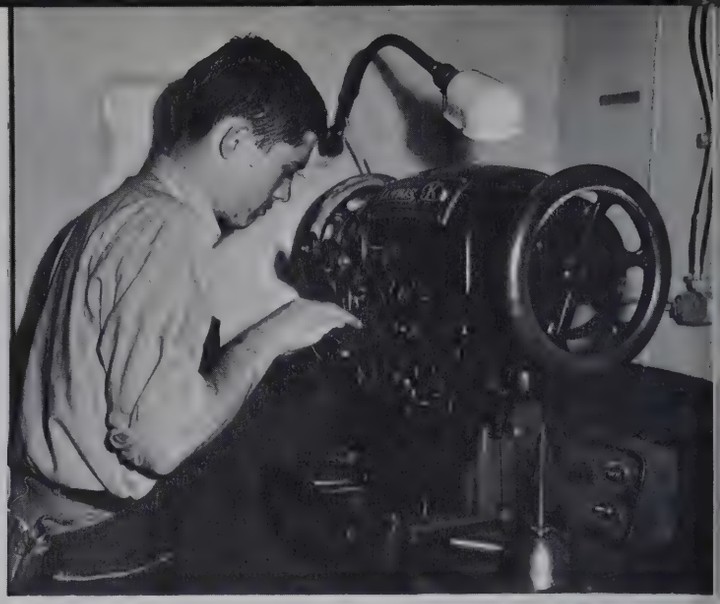


. . . you shoulda seen what they had me doin' today! Tom Simon



Gee, my fingernails are gettin' dirty! Grover Sawyer

We have all the facilities . . . a photographer, lawyer, postman, cobbler, laundryman, tailor, printer . . . assuring the comfort and well being of our world . . .

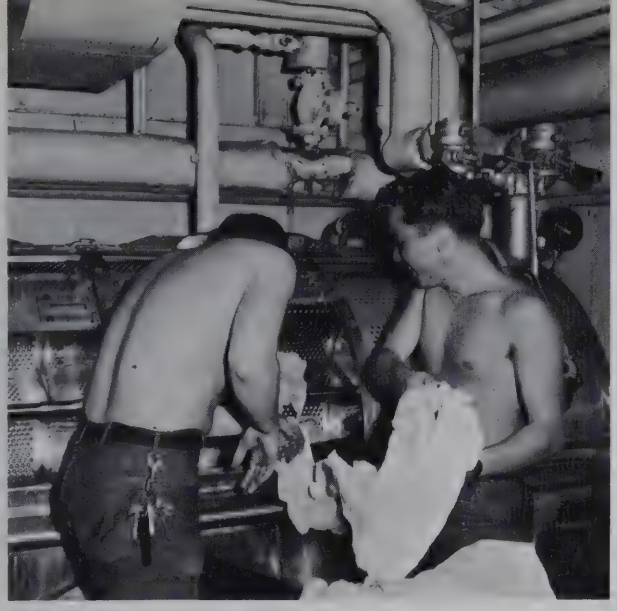


The "boot" cobbler . . . Bill Redding

Be quiet, be quiet! I'll feed ya! Duke Bunce

A photograph of a photographer taking a photograph of the photo lab . . . "Goody" Goodline

. . . and baby bear said, "who's been sleeping in my bed" . . . Ernest Howard, Lt. Meighan



Hey! Lookit THIS shirt! FOUR pieces! Bob Norbut, Francis Fogle

O.K., I'll press it, but promise to put it back on. Joe Ramos, Vance Ellison

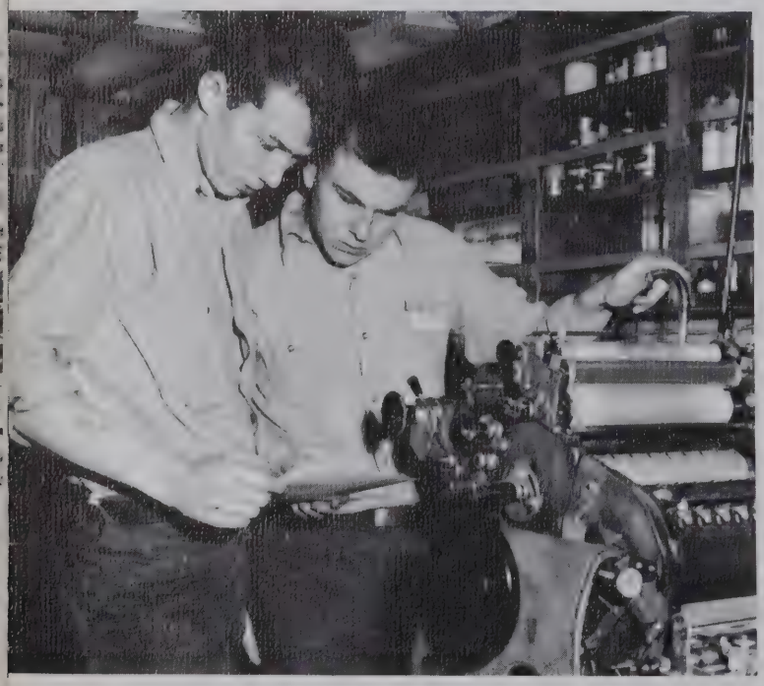
Heh, heh, this'll throw 'em, THREE sleeves in a shirt! Jim Ramsey

SARATOGA . . . somthin's wrong . . . Ron Schweigler

. . . and baby bear said, "someone's been sleeping in MY bed" . . . Bill Hogan, John Miller, Chief Dube, Mr. Clyatt, Bill Ikola, Jim Gaston

Maybe we should give it all to the Boy Scouts . . . Hermon Jerald, Jonsey Jones, Chief Johnson, John Sugg

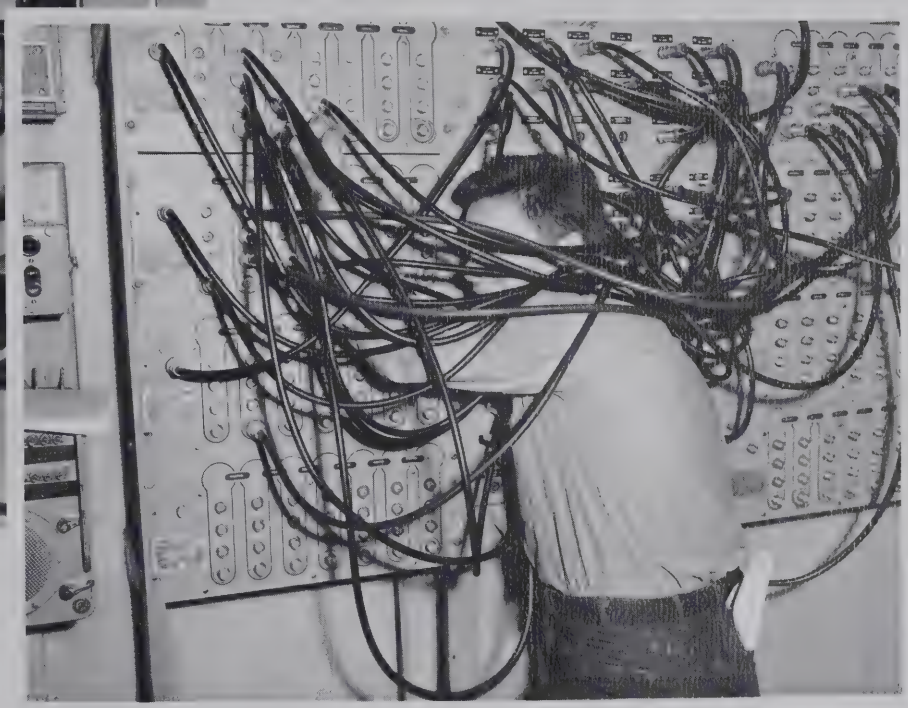
Communications, the vital link, takes on awesome proportions aboard SARATOGA . . . tons of paperwork are processed yearly . . . thousands of messages are sent and received . . .



Boy, Charley's gonna kill us!
Richy Collins, George Looney

Yes, master . . . Ray Sadler

Help, its got me! Dick Clermont

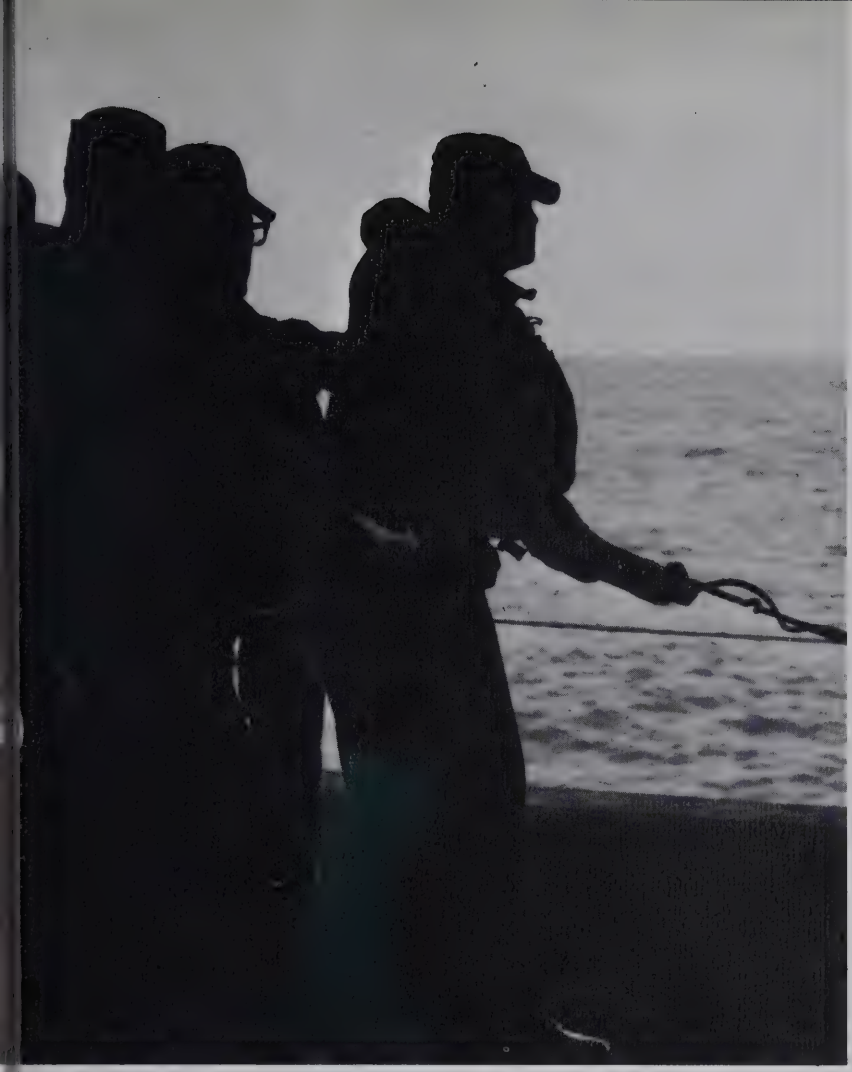


. . . in- C-a-n-n-e-s- s-e-e Y-v-o-n-n-e . . . D Brown

Lookit! I can fly! Wheezer Fisher

Ammunition Onload . . .

SARATOGA takes on her ammunition, thousands of tons at a time . . .



But, according to this chart, we're somewhere's near here! Cdr. Griffin, Ltjg. Ehrens

As the two ships rise and fall over the granite sea, rockets and bombs come aboard via burtoning rig . . .
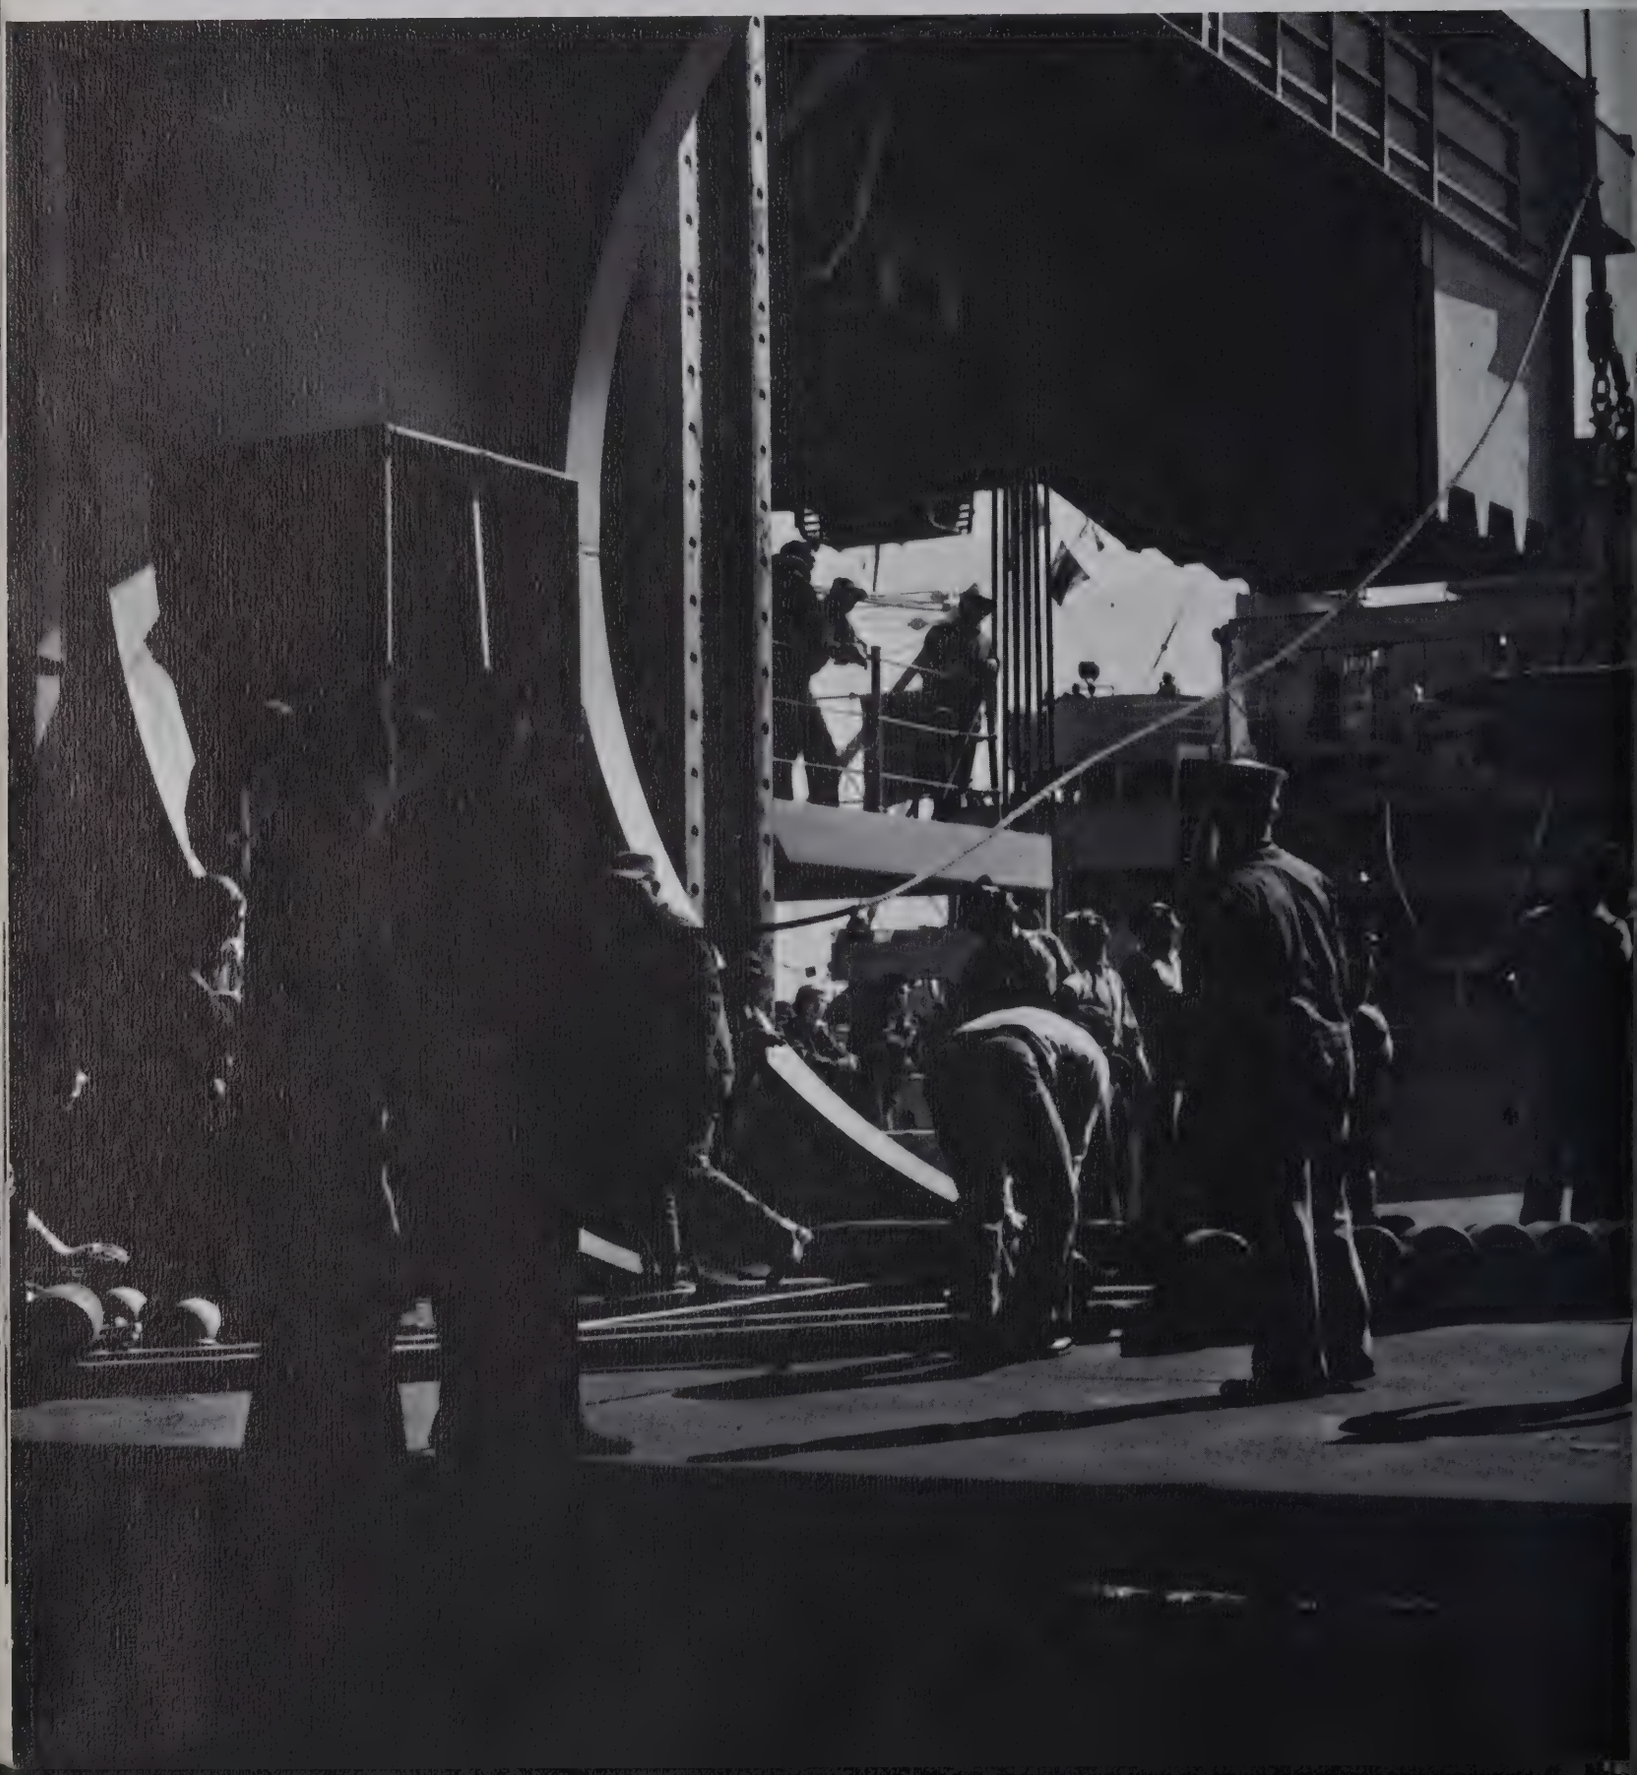
Each man silently hopes he will never see that dreaded day,
but he knows we would be ready . . .



Hoboy, flightdeckers!
Now we can catch up on our cumshaw!

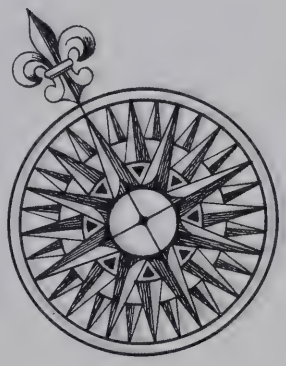
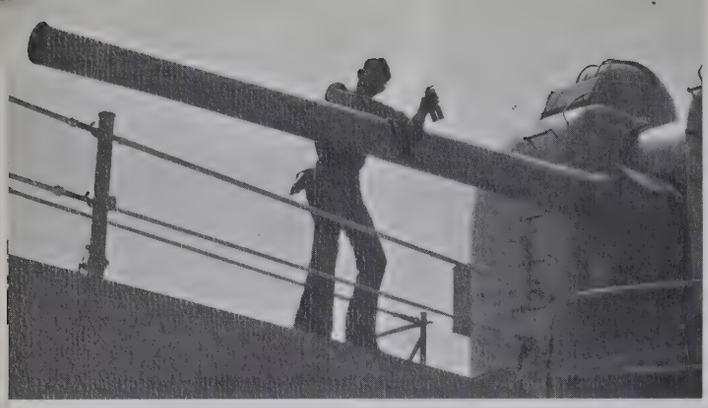
Who put eight, great chainlinks in this little-bitty box? Lewis, Westnedge.

What are we doing with 200 sacks of Vigiro? Dave Smith, MacMillion, Paul Salmon, Mike Templett

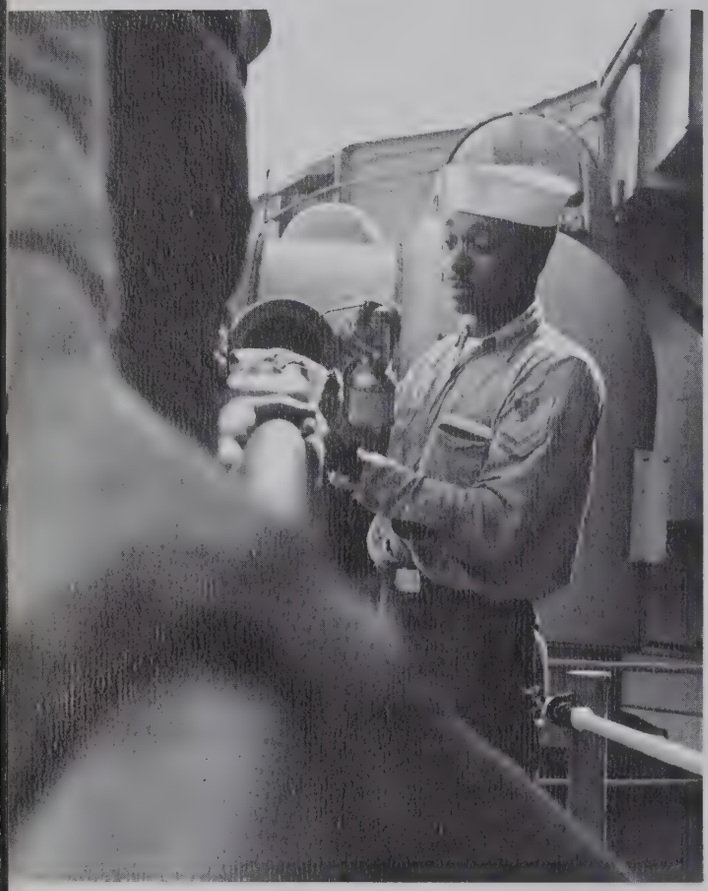


Boxes, crates, barrels and bags come aboard, 250 tons at a time . . . our cavernous storerooms could keep us at sea for months . . . they're always full . . .

Yeh, I said "get down here and help. I don't care if you ARE a first class!"

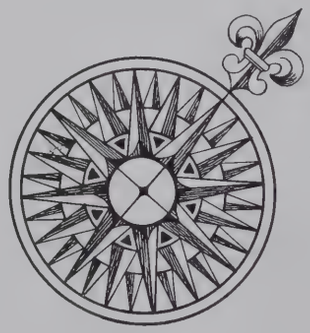


Hey, buddy. C'mon up an' have a beer!
Wil Matthews



Squirt, squirt. George Washington

Constant maintenance and hospital-like cleanliness assures us our defense will be . . .



Ready Aim . . .

Heh, heh. Those guys think I'm workin' Wil "Gyro Gearloose" Matthews

These phones work about as well as my guns! Cdr. Braid

Two lemons and one apple . . . nuts! George Washington

Fire!

. . . from the tracking station the lookouts report our success . . .

A knotty problem is pondered at Air Intelligence . . . Joe Ramos, Vance Ellison

Silly guy, he ate too much again . . .

(. . . better not . . . I can't swim that far . . .) Sammy Davis

Geez, wish my mudder was here . . . Moose Kennedy

As the day draws to a close, the men enjoy a well earned nap, a tray of hot chow and a thought of home . . . a man catches up on his sewing, while the nightly movie is televised.

No, Charley, no! Not the black button! Danny Cox, Charley Sutherland

Good lord, we've created a monster! Joe Roheiler, Jim Drainger

Yeh, Hardwick, you're the best barber in the world, now watch the ears! Hardwick, PFC Dillon

Sunday-go-to-church-dungarees . . . Stu Stewart

The best reward in the Navy . . . Jerry Parker

In the cones of unblinking lights, the bowels of SARATOGA continue their hum through the night . . . the watch continues . . . the men below get ready for tomorrow's inspection . . .

Our own Cameo maker . . . Buskum Caywood

(. . . AND IN Naples see Maria . . .)
H. U. Howard

I'll give you $5.00 for it. Capt. Moore

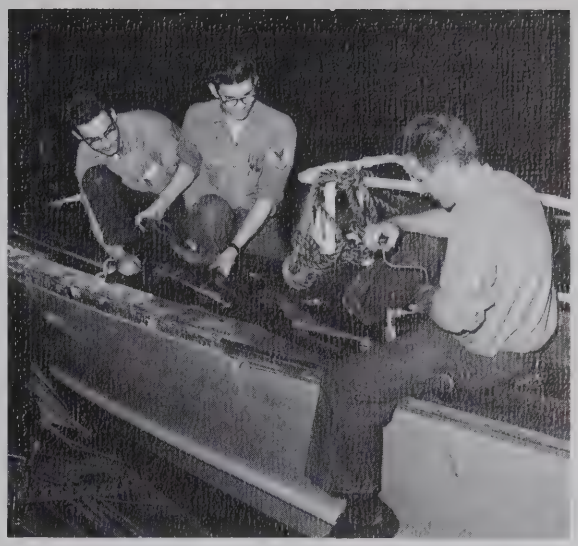
Would you believe it, tomorrow we'll have a cold . . .

SARATOGA parades for her captain . . . our Marines set the example.

A fresh breeze seems to move throughout the ship as the men anticipate LIBERTY!
Many preparations are in order before we hit the beach . . . boats are readied, the anchor set while the loot is counted . . .

"No, I think its tomato soup" Capt. Moore, Lcdr. Moureau

Never use a wrench thats too small Jim Hayes



Gee . . . Tom you're clever! Hank Nelson, Ken Bee Bee, Tom Klump

Brazer brazing . . . John Daily

I think I'll take this one! Gil Augustini

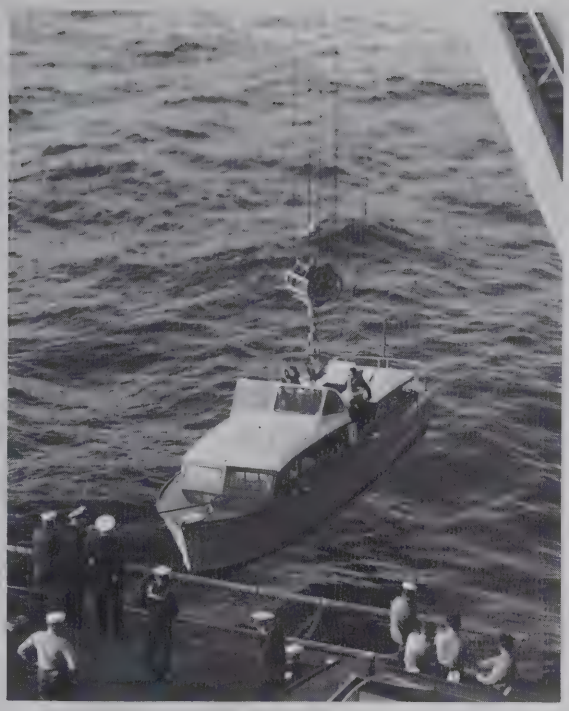
One for you, one for me, one for you . . . Mr. Hernandez

It looks like another Cape Town or Bombay . . . Don Marchese

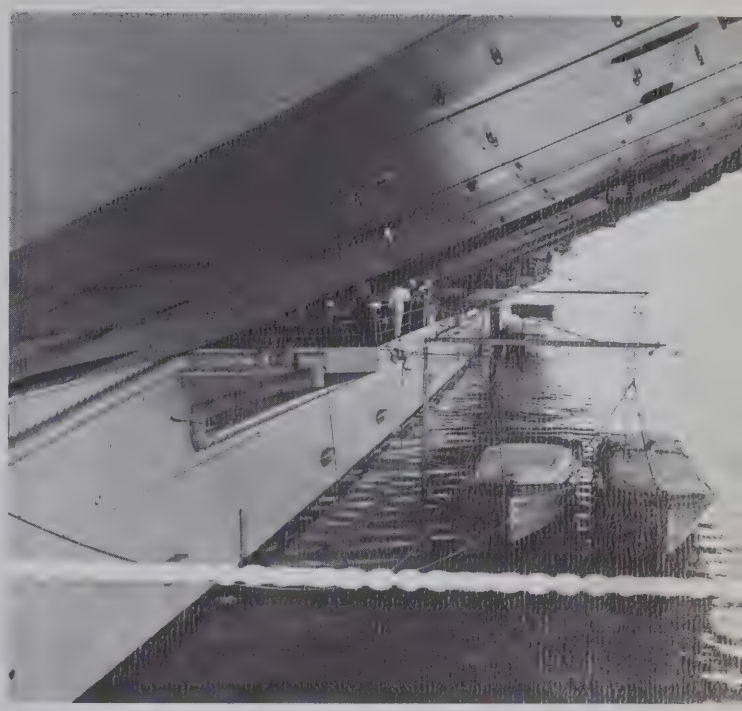
Land Ho!

The men crowd the rail, hoping to get a glimpse of a quiet beach, a pretty girl . . . the anchor is dropped into quiet waters, boats lowered over the side, awaiting . . .

Wish I could swim!



They never return in one piece . . .



The lull before the storm . . .

Abstract, eh?

("Pssst chief, salute from the eye brow!")

. . . Liberty!

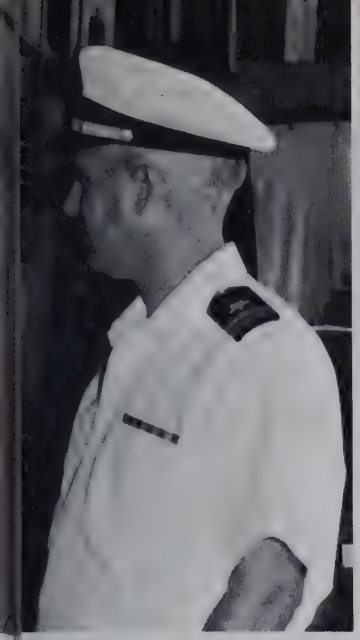
And away we go!

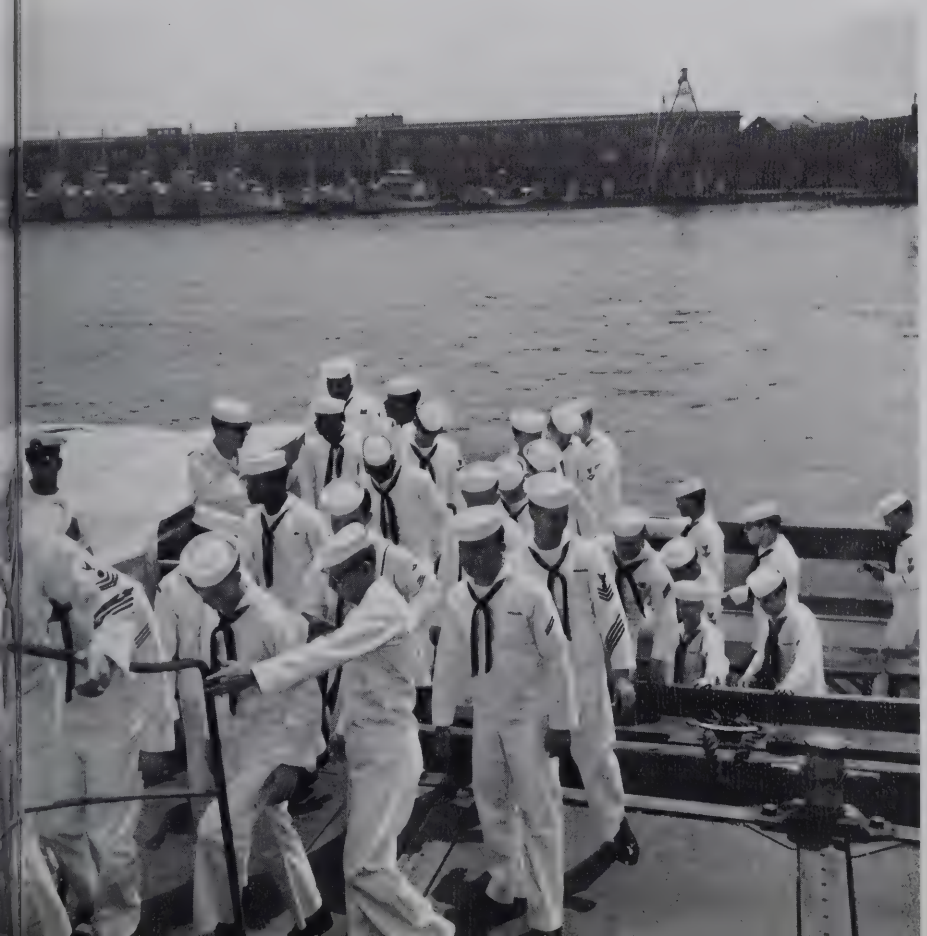
So that's what it looks like!

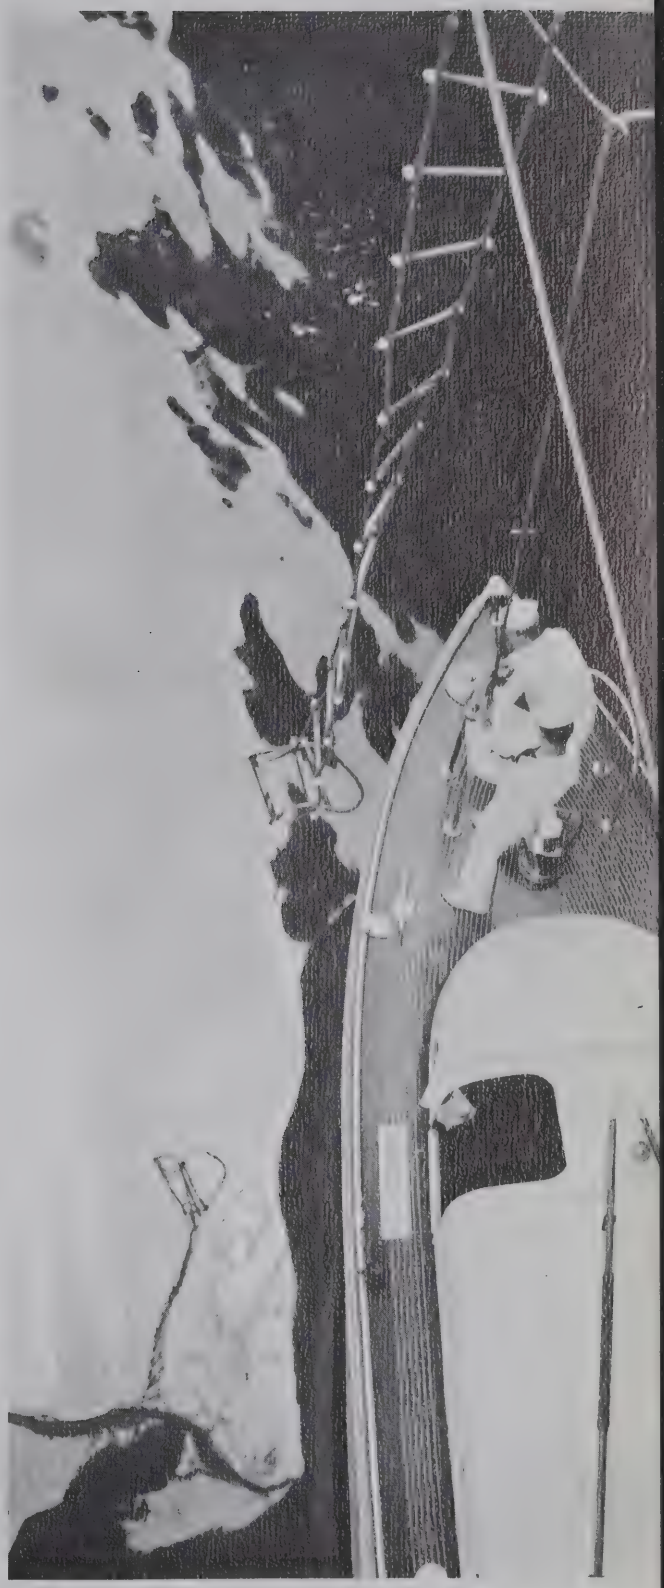


With the hats at a cocky angle, a sharp salute, we "request permission to go ashore, sir!" Over the side we go, tumbling into an impatient launch . . . in no time SARATOGA becomes a mere silhouette on the horizon . . .

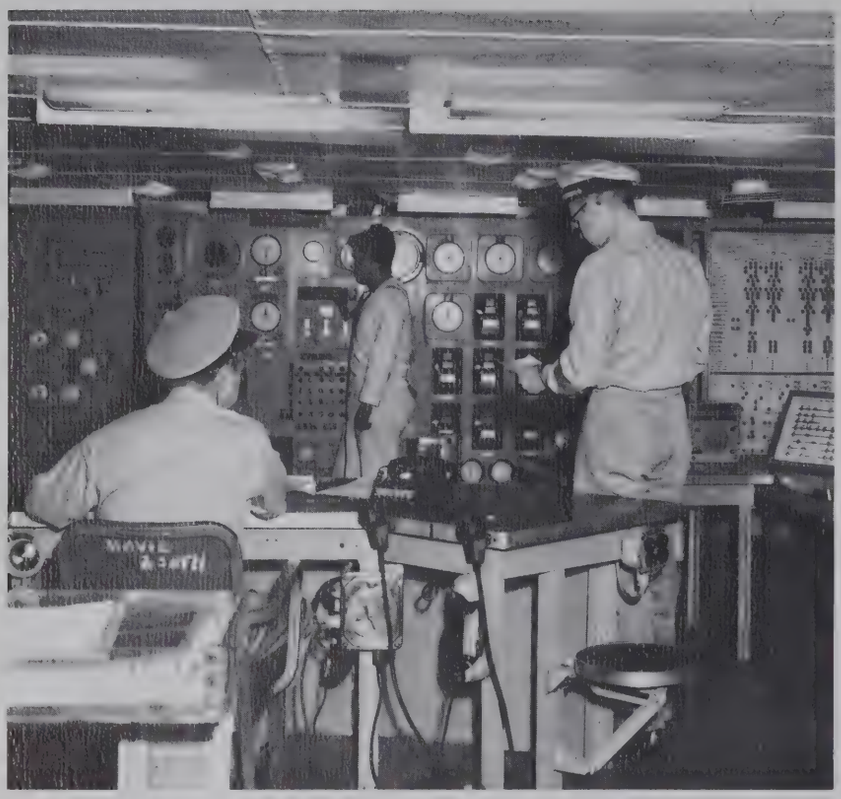
There's much to see, many people to meet, things to buy . . . time's a-wasting!

Going ashore loaded (with money) . . .





Upholding the grand tradition . . . Don Baker, Walt Dukes

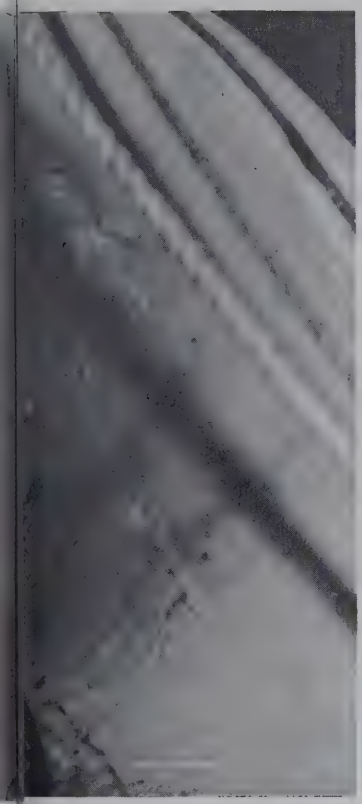


I don't care if it IS their only chair, I'm not giving it back! Chief McCue, Lt. Harwood

Caught in a whirlpool of steel . . . Earl Blair

Meanwhile, SARATOGA patiently waits for her men to return. The watch continues, for the ship must live . . . This is a chance for painting, for repairs and maintenance . . . we must fix the sea's relentless ravagings . . .

The only hammock aboard . . .



Hey, I don't LIKE being a worm! John Ledee

The Ducal Palace

PORTS OF CALL

. . . In sunlight or in rain each man feels the magnificence and awe of seeing the faces and places too great for any name

The Cathedral of St. Marks as seen from the court yard of the Doges.

A modern city, reflecting a rich history . . .

Two rather uncomplicated people . . .

An echo of Palermo's past, a Greek statue.

Palermo

Through the portals of Palermo the innocent eyes of a child look upon a sailors' city which the Gods built in olden days . . .

A funeral parade through the streets . . . notice the pallbearers.

A modern city park.

A view of the ancient harbor.

Well, she looks like Bridgette.

Hey! Lets stop here.

Marseille

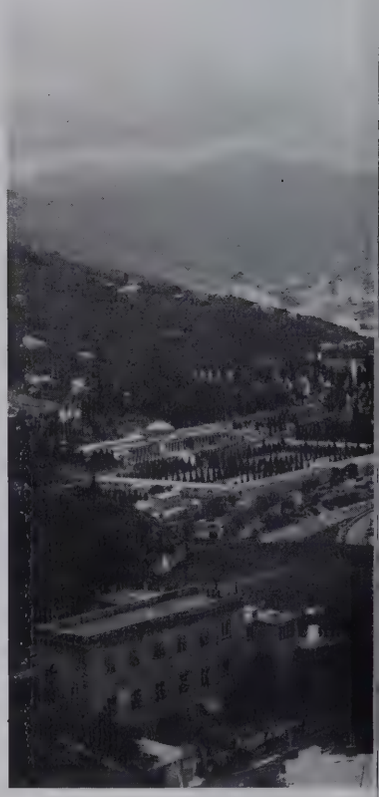
Marseille's luxury shops and enormous sidewalk cafes unfold before our eyes as we journey up Canebiere.

Old Castle — at fleet landing.

Are you sure this is the address she gave you?

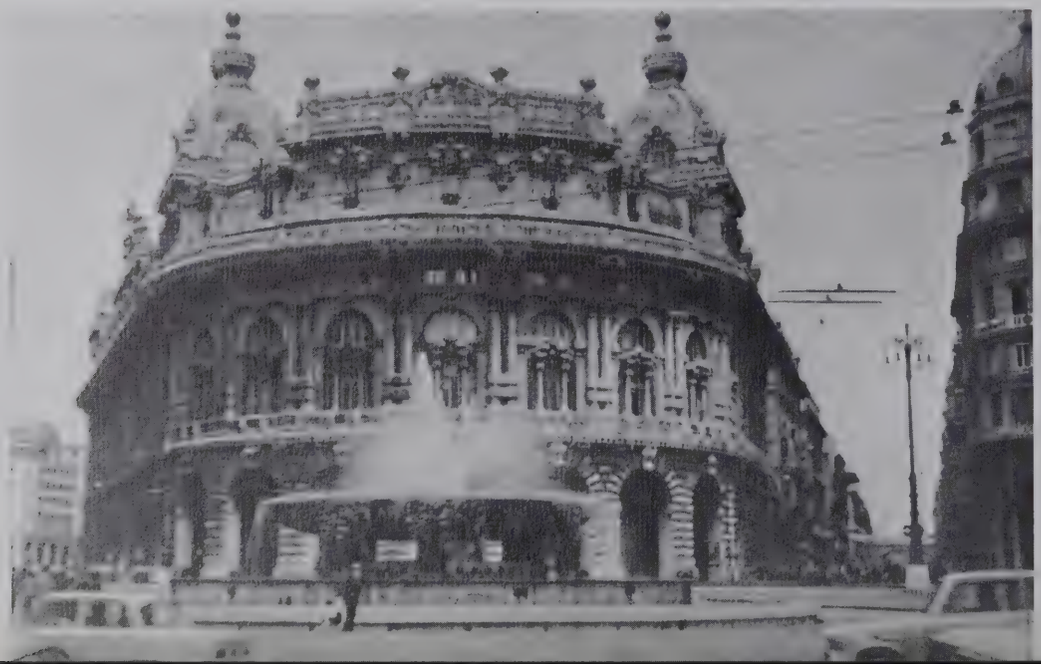
Look Hazel "Sara II" is back.

The street markets are readied for the evening shoppers.

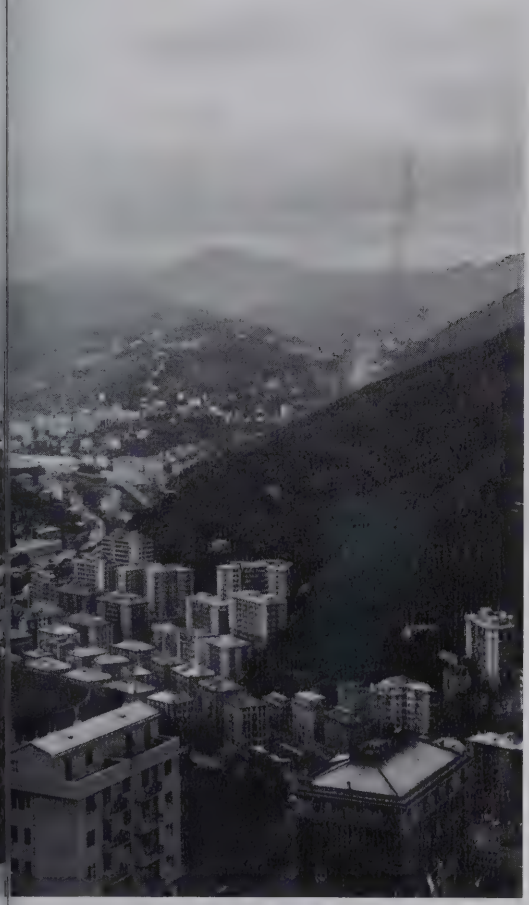


A modern city thrives amidst the monuments of bygone days . . .

A suitable focal point in downtown Genoa, the one-time center of a great maritime nation.



A city of churches, echoing many years of hard times.



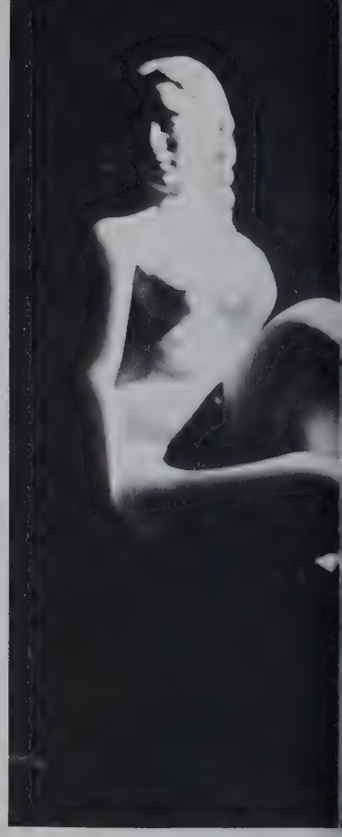
Genoa, the vertical city . . . the ancient graveyard.

Genoa . . .

. . . an architectural anachronism blending together the old and the new into a surprising fantasia of visual pleasure.

One of Genoa's thousand faces.

Paris . . .



Our dreams become a reality . . . The city of art and romance reveals her many treasures. Our tour was an adventure into the world capitol of gaiety.

A glimpse into the splendor of the Roman Empire . . .

Time stands still here . . .
Time to ponder, and dream
Time to love
Time to live . . .

An ageless scene . . .

CANNES . . .

on the Riviera

We enjoy the historical sights of the Mediterranean, yes . . . we enjoy the many different customs and peoples . . . but we're happiest in Cannes . . . Sara's second home . . .

One of the many bronzed beauties . . .

A gay boulevard along the Riviera . . .

A man's Paradise . . .

A familiar sight, Saratoga on the horizon . . .

The lovely French sun . . .

Two famous people . . . Harold Lloyd and Captain Moore.

Saratoga's Band struts its stuff . . . it's the 4th of July!

The lure of Cannes . . .

And the most delightful gal we encountered . . .

The girls of Cannes are French . . . they are European . . . but they are something more . . . somehow in their friendly mannerisms they seem American . . . at any rate they're great!

A close-order study of bikini . . .

The Academy of Athens, part of their famous university.

The magnificent Acropolis . . .

Old & New C.O.'s — CDR. Creasman, CDR. Pierozzi . . .

Fighting THIRTY ONE, better known as the TOMCATTERS, provides all-weather fighter protection for the SARATOGA. FELIX the Cat, the Squadron's insignia since 1926, has seen action in every major naval conflict from Pearl Harbor to the present day. In 1929 he was flying the bi-winged F3B from the decks of the USS SARATOGA (CV-3). Today aboard the SARA (CVA-60) it is ironic that he flies the Demon, a high performance all-weather jet intercepter also designated the F3B. The mission of the Demon is the maintenance of air superiority through the interception and destruction of enemy aircraft. Its principal weapons are the Sidewinder and Sparrow III missiles, the latter being capable of a unique head-on attack that enables the Demon pilot to destroy an enemy without ever seeing him.

Under the leadership of CDR. NELLO PIEROZZI, an ex-Blue Angel, the Squadron's 20 officers and 180 men work long and hard to uphold a reputation developed over the years. The outstanding success of this all hands effort was evident when the TOMCATTERS won the AIRLANT "E" and Safety Award for 1962. This means that Fighting THIRTY ONE was not only the East Coast's outstanding all-weather fighter squadron but they were also the safest.

Early in July CDR. PIEROZZI was relieved as Head Tomcat by CDR. Jesse C. CREASMAN. Not many days before the ceremony, CDR. CREASMAN, then the Squadron Executive Officer, reached a goal rarely achieved by naval aviators when he logged his 200th night carrier landing.

This was the fifth and last Med cruise for FELIX in the Demon, for upon reaching the States he will transition to the Phantom, F4B. While the near future holds many changes in store for the TOMCATTERS, they will return for the next cruise with an even greater capability to provide complete all-weather protection for the SARATOGA.

VF-32

Cdr. Gray, Squadron C.O., after making 200 arrested landings aboard SARATOGA . . .

Fighter Squadron THIRTY TWO was originally commissioned as Fighter Bomber Squadron THREE (VBF-3) on 1 February 1945. VBF-3 participated in many of the closing battles of the war in the Pacific including Iwo Jima and carrier strikes on the mainland of Japan. On 7 August 1948 the squadron was redesignated Fighter Squadron THIRTY TWO (VF-32).

At the out break of the Korean conflict, VF-32, operating as a part of Air Group Three aboard USS LEYTE, joined the SEVENTH Fleet, becoming a part of Task Force 77 on 8 October 1950. From that time until January 1951, VF-32 participated in strikes against Korean targets including Wonsan Harbor, Puckchong, Chonjin, and Chosin Reservoir.

On a strike against the Chosin Reservoir on 4 December 1950, a VF-32 "Corsair" piloted by Ens. J. L. BROWN, was hit by anti-aircraft fire and forced down in enemy territory. LTJG. HUDNER of VF-32 landed his plane alongside ENS. BROWN and attempted to rescue him. His efforts were in vain, though LTJG. HUDNER managed to escape with his own life. For his heroic efforts LTJG. HUDNER was later awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

After a Mediterranean cruise flying the F9 F-8 Cougar in 1955 aboard USS TICONDEROGA (CVA-14), the squadron began preparing for the transition to the Navy's new supersonic F8U-1 "Crusader." In mid 1957 VF-32 became the first operational squadron to fly the Crusader.

From October 1958 through the present VF-32 as a unit of Carrier Air Group THREE has deployed aboard USS SARATOGA four times for Mediterranean deployments. In 1958 VF-32 participated in the Lebanese conflict, and during the 1961 to 1962 cruise the squadron conducted carrier suitability trials aboard the French Carrier, CLEMENCEAU. The results of these trials was one of the factors that prompted the French Navy to purchase the Crusader.

During VF-32's shore based periods the squadron has participated in many exercises and operations including a role in the Cuban Crisis.

VF-32 is Commanded by CDR. G.L. GRAY, Jr. and the Executive Officer is CDR. A.V. BARBER.

The squadron is presently flying one ot the later models of the Crusader, the F8D (F8U-2N). This is a limited all-weather interceptor capable of speeds approaching twice the speed of sound. The Crusader is capable of reaching altitudes in excess of 50,000 feet and has a range of more than 1000 miles. For armament it carries four 20mm cannons and four heat seeking air-to-air "Sidewinder" missiles.

VA-34

Cdr. W. T. Zebrowski, Squadron C.O., after making 600 arrested landings.

Attack Squadron THIRTY FOUR, commanded by CDR. W. T. ZEBROWSKI, has been in commission since 1943. The "Blue Blasters" presently fly the A4C SKYHAWK, the ninth type of aircraft to be assigned since the original commissioning. The SKYHAWK is the smallest and lightest U.S. combat jet built. It measures 27 feet from wingtip, 40 feet in length, and weighs about 11,000 pounds. This is only about half as large as most fighter aircraft, and is small enough that the usual distinctive Naval aircraft design of folding wings was not felt to be necessary.

The SKYHAWK specialized in high speed, long range, high or low altitude delivery of conventional or nuclear weapons. Although designed as a low level delivery aircraft, it flies at speeds in excess of 600 MPH at altitudes in excess of 35,000 feet. The SKYHAWK is readily configured to deliver nuclear weapons, conventional bombs, rockets, missiles, napalm, or 20 MM cannon. The aircraft can also double as the role of an in-flight tanker when configured for this mission.

The "Blue Blasters" have scored some notable firsts with its A4 "SKYHAWKS." Among these were the first individual Navy E's ever awarded an A4 squadron, the first A4 squadron to deploy to the U.S. SIXTH FLEET, the first A4 squadron to win the CNO Safety Award, the first A4 squadron to fire the "Bullpup" missile on the east coast to the U.S., and the first A4 squadron to deploy with the "Bullpup."

VA-34 was commissioned as a fighter squadron in 1943 and changed to an attack squadron in 1955. The squadron's blue tailed A4C SKYHAWKS, called "Tinker Toys", carry an important part of the load shared by the other squadron's aboard the mighty SARATOGA.

Attack Squadron THIRTY-FIVE is the fourth oldest aviation squadron and the third oldest carrier aviation squadron in the Navy.

Commissioned in Norfolk in July of 1934 as VB-3B, the squadron has further been designated VB-4, VB-3, VA-3A, VA-34 and finally VA-35.

The famous Black Panther insignia will be recognized by those who know the squadron and its outstanding record during World War II at Midway, Leyte, Guadalcanal, the Solomons, Luzon, Formosa, the China Coast, Nansei Shoto, Honshu, and Iwo Jima.

In peacetime the squadron carries on this tradition in militant readiness as demonstrated by her record of armed patrols during the Lebanon Crisis of 1958 and, more recently, in defense of Guantanamo Bay during the first critical weeks of the Cuban crisis in the fall of 1962.

The Black Panthers have flown seven different types of aircraft since their first BG-1's and presently boast the Navy's only propeller attack aircraft, the Douglas A1-H "Able Dogs," the "Workhorse of the Navy."

CDR. Matthes on the hot line . . .

Flying the versatile A4C "Skyhawk," the ROADRUNNERS of VA-36 are a familiar sight to SARATOGA bird-watchers. The Black-tailed Bantam Bombers are richly endowed with tradition in carrier aviation. Starting out as Fighter Squadron 102, they flew F9F-5 Panthers during the Korean conflict. They have operated from six of the Navy's carriers: BENNINGTON (CVA-20), aboard which they became the Navy's first jet squadron to qualify in the use of the mirror landing system; INTREPID (CVA-11); FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT (CVA-42); ANTIETAM (CVA-36); LEXINGTON (CVA-16), on which they operated during the early part of the recent Cuban crisis; and of course, the SARATOGA. Among their many achievements, one of the most noteworthy is their safety record. The ROADRUNNERS flew accident-free during Fiscal year 1963 while logging over 5000 hours and 1337 carrier landings. This record is indicative of the fine teamwork of all members of the squadron, and justifies fully the painstaking attention to detail on the parts of every man in the squadron, from the pilots to the "keep 'em flying" crew in maintenance.

VAH-9

Lt. Marshall & The C.O., Cdr. Shipman.

Heavy Attack Squadron NINE was first commissioned as Composite Squadron NINE on 15 January 1953. With sixty officers and men the squadron flew two PBM "Avengers" and one P2V "Neptune." From this beginning, Heavy Attack Squadron NINE has grown into a fully operational squadron, operating twelve twin jet bombers off the flight deck of the USS SARATOGA (CVA-60).

Flying the A3B SKYWARRIOR, the largest carrier based aircraft in the fleet today, the HOOT OWLS of VAH-9 stand ready to carry out their mission of all weather attack at all times. Manufactured by Douglas and powered by two PRATT & WHITNEY J-57 Turbo Jet Engines, the SKYWARRIOR is capable of delivering both conventional and nuclear weapons. Guided by radar the A3B seeks out its target day and night, in any kind of weather. With its crew of pilot, bombardier/navigator and third crewman, it can deliver its weapons from above forty thousand feet or from a few hundred feet above the deck.

CDR. J. L. SHIPMAN is the Commanding Officer of the squadron's 333 officers and men.

Lcdr. Moberly and hard-to-convince friend . . .

VAW-12 Detachment 60 headed by LCDR. A. L. MOBERLY is attached to the parent command home based at USNAS Norfolk, Virginia. The squadron itself provides detachments of men and airplanes to practically every carrier on the east coast.

The mission of the E1B, affectionately referred to as the "Willy Fudd" runs the gamut from airborne early warning and searching for low flying aircraft, to radio and radar relay to surface forces, ASW, as well as search and rescue.

The plane itself is manned by a crew of four: pilot, co-pilot, officer controller, and enlisted aircrewman. Whenever flight quarters is sounded it's a sure bet that a "Fudd" is on number one and is ready to defend it's reputation as "The Eyes of the Fleet."

VFP-62

The C.O. makes his 200th . . .

One of the most important methods of modern intelligence collection is aerial photographic reconnaissance and this is the business of VFP-62. The squadron's mission is to provide aerial photographic intelligence for naval operations. Some of our capabilities include pre-strike operations, post-strike damage assessment information and also night photography.

VFP-62, DET 60, flies the RF8A "Photo Crusader," the world's fastest carrier-based reconnaissance aircraft. The Photo Detachment, unlike its sister "fighter" carries no armament. Instead, 4 to 6 high speed miniaturized aerial cameras are utilized. Controlled by the pilot from the cockpit, these cameras can obtain high-quality recon photos of the terrain directly below, in front and on both sides of the aircraft. Thus the pilot can see the ground directly below the aircraft and can position his plane precisely over his target, ensuring accurate photography.

The photo pilot must depend upon the RF-8As high performance flight capabilities for protection against enemy planes or ground fire. With its afterburner engine, the Photo Crusader is capable of speeds over 1000 mph: it can fly at altitudes of almost 10 miles and has a range of over 1000 miles. This range can also be increased by the use of in-flight refueling from a "tanker" aircraft. A highly dependable aircraft, the RF8A Photo Crusader is an ideal plane for its mission as the reconnaisance "Eyes of the Fleet" as was proved during the Cuban Crisis when VFP-62 aircraft were over Cuba daily conducting low altitude reconaissance.

Utility Squadron Two, the parent squadron of Detachment Sixty, is permanently based at N.A.S., Lakehurst, New Jersey. For over a decade HU-2 has supplied Atlantic Fleet carriers with helicopters to be used in rescue of downed pilots at sea and to provide utility services for the carrier and accompanying ships. SARATOGA'S Detachment Sixty is one of the last detachments to fly the old familiar HUP in the Mediterranean. Soon to take its place will be the jet turbine powered UH-2A.

Pilots of the detachment who have mastered the art of flying sideways (conservatively estimated for a Med tour at two-thirds the distance around the world) are: LCDR. David Rust, LT. C. S. Sapp, LTJG H. L. Petersen and LTJG Morse.

STRAGGLERS

So ends a most interesting and rewarding experience . . . Seldom are we permitted the opportunity of observing, first hand, such a blending of the Old and the New Worlds . . . We have witnessed our Heritage . . . the lands from which the entire Western Hemisphere sprang.

We, the Men of Saratoga, with a treasure of memories never to be forgotten, are . . .

Homeward Bound ! ! !

After a long seven month cruise, Sara's bow once again turns westward. Under the command of Captain J. E. Lacouture, we journey home.
